

TRUMAN PROMISED GOP COOPERATION

HOMAGE PAID
HEROIC DEAD
OF TWO WARSCALL FOR LASTING PEACE MADE ON ARMISTICE DAY

(By The Associated Press)

Americans around the world paid homage to the heroic dead of two World Wars in Armistice day observances yesterday in which President Truman and other leaders called for lasting peace.

Mr. Truman, placing a wreath at the tomb of the unknown soldier at Arlington National cemetery, said in a brief talk:

"What we are trying to do now is to create a peace which will prevent the necessity of our grandchildren fighting a third world war for the same principles for which we stand now, and have always stood."

He said the welfare of the United States and of the world "are wrapped up in one package—peace."

At Frankfurt, Germany, Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, likewise calling for "accomplishment and preservation of a lasting peace," said past sacrifices will have been in vain "unless we of the occupation army meet our responsibilities today."

Gen. Mark W. Clark told his troops in Austria that sacrifices of the two World Wars should be the "groundwork on which we build the bulwark of lasting peace for the entire world."

Strong Defense Needed

In France, school children placed flowers on graves of American soldiers at various battlefields cemeteries. Veterans of both wars joined the French in ceremonies at the Arch of Triumph in Paris where Georges Bidault, interim president of France, laid a wreath at the grave of the unknown soldier.

In England, German prisoners of war laid bouquets on the graves of 6,000 American men dead at a cemetery near Cambridge.

Fleet Admiral William F. Halsey, speaking at Kansas City, warned against the "temptation of complete disarmament" and against "giving the atom bomb secret to someone else."

Gen. George C. Kenney, head of the strategic air command, declared in a St. Louis talk that the country's defenses are "in worse shape" than when Pearl Harbor was bombed.

Paul H. Griffith, National American Legion commander, speaking at Arlington after President Truman's address, urged a strong national defense program with universal military training as its backbone.

LABOR TRUCE URGED

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—President Truman used the Armistice day holiday today to urge a truce in labor-management warfare so the American economy, now largely free of controls, may function on all cylinders.

Meanwhile OPA Administrator Paul Porter called in key aides to help with what he termed the "big and shovel work" of liquidating the price agency. Nearly all wage ceilings and all wage controls were abolished over the weekend.

The White House support for an Armistice between labor and management came during the first post-election news conference when a reporter asked Mr. Truman whether he favored such suggestion.

COURT DIRECTS TREASURE HUNT — When Joe Bizjak, of Cleveland, Ohio, was divorced recently by his wife, Jennie, she asked that he be given the contents of the cellar of the cafe Jennie owns. She, thinking only of the pile of trash there, agreed. Pressed by the judge, Bizjak finally declared he had buried $14,000 there. Despite Jennie's scoffing at the idea, the court granted Joe six months to find the treasure under court supervision. King George Guarded
From Terrorists As Parliament Convenes

BY ED CREAGS

London, Nov. 11 (AP)—Military and civilian police mobilized to-night to guard King George VI from any conceivable terrorist attacks when he rides in pre-war pomp and splendor tomorrow to open the second session of parliament since the Labor party came to power.

The precautions overshadowed the traditional king's speech, drafted by the Labor government and expected to blaze new trails of nationalization and endorse what the Labor party has heretofore opposed—peacetime conscription.

SOLDIER'S WIFE
KIDNAPED, SLAIN

Body Of Woman Missing
45 Days Found With
Ex-Convict Suitor

Mt. Holly, N. J., Nov. 11 (AP)—Searchers in the desolate woodlands of Lebanon state park followed radioed instructions from a Navy blimp circling overhead today and came upon the bodies of an ex-convict suitor and the soldier's wife he kidnaped from the bed of her husband 45 days ago.

The badly decomposed bodies were sprawled on the edge of a swamp about 400 yards from the roadway where duck hunters had found the kidnap automobile yesterday.

The woman, Mrs. Mary Pyle Kimmy, 26-year-old wife of Sgt. Glynn F. Kimmy of the U. S. Signal Corps at Fort Monmouth, N. J., wore the same red, black and yellow plaid skirt and red coat she hastily had donned the early morning of Sept. 27 when Chalmers Laubaugh, 35-year-old parolee from a prison near Washington, D. C., entered her bedroom and at gunpoint forced her to leave the husband's side and drive off with him.

State Police Captain Walter J. Coughlin said upon the woman's body had been identified by her husband and by the Kimmy's landlady who came from Little Silver to the scene. Laubaugh's wallet was nearby and he was attired in the same blue shirt and blue trousers he wore the night of the kidnaping.

In a bag found at the scene was a picture of Sgt. and Mrs. Kimmy as well as Mrs. Kimmy's social security card, the FBI said.

Capt. Coughlin said the case appeared to be a "clear one of murder and suicide," but added the inquiry would be continued. FBI Chief S. K. McKee said his inquiry was also underway.

MAJOR PARTY TO STAND BY BALLOT EDICTCONGRESS SET TO MEET PRESIDENT
HALF WAY

(By The Associated Press)

Republicans everywhere returned a ready "yes" to President Truman's call for cooperation between Congress and the executive yesterday while making it plain that they intend to stand by their principles.

None found anything to criticize in the Democratic President's statement, following the GOP congressional election victories, that "I shall cooperate in every proper manner with members of the Congress, and my hope and prayer is that this spirit of cooperation will be reciprocated."

Election Is Mandate

The tenor of the Republican comment generally was to the effect that they will meet the President half-way—but no further; that they consider the election a "mandate" for certain changes.

From the Democratic side, Senator Elbert D. Thomas of Utah commented that it remains to be seen whether Republican cooperation will materialize.

Here is a sampling of the Republicans' reaction:

Party chairman B. Carroll Reece—"I am confident that the President will find an abundance of good will among the Republican Congress. The people have spoken and they spoke in unmistakable terms. Their mandate, as I see it, is binding not only upon those candidates elected to the Senate and House on Nov. 5 but also upon all other officials of the federal government."

Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, slated to become speaker of the House—"We welcome an opportunity to work with the President in carrying out the mandate of the people and to return this government to the people and to sane Americanism. America's position in international affairs must be kept non-partisan. We believe in America and the American way of life. We shall be glad to cooperate with the President and the patriotic Democrats in Congress to achieve progress and security in the American way."

Rep. Arends of Illinois, Republican House whip—"Republicans will carry out their responsibilities under the new powers which came to them through the elections. I think we should and must continue the non-partisan approach to our foreign relations problems."

Joseph R. McCarthy, Senator-elect from Wisconsin—"to get our economy back to normal we need a maximum of cooperation and a minimum of politics. I am sure Mr. Truman will find the Congress willing to make the utmost effort in that direction."

Senator Ball of Minnesota—"I think it would be wise and extremely helpful for the President to have the same type of weekly conferences with Republican legislative leaders that he has had in the past with the Democrats." (Mr. Truman said that is a matter to be decided later.)

Rep. Halleck of Indiana—"we Republicans recognize our responsibility and we are going to meet it."

Senator Wiley of Wisconsin—"We like the President's words. We hope that the conduct of his office will square with his ideals."

FRENCH VOTERS
LEAN TO REDSCommunists May Name
First Premier In Nation's History

BY ROBERT C. WILSON

Paris, Nov. 11 (AP)—The Communists emerged today as France's largest political party on the basis of nearly complete returns from yesterday's elections, and thus paved the way for the possible naming of the first Communist premier in the nation's history.

The voting was for deputies in the new national assembly of the fourth republic.

The Communist advance, however, was accomplished by Socialist losses, and the combined left strength appeared weaker than at the time of the last national elections.

Maurice Thorez, Communist leader, was mentioned frequently in speculation over a new premier. The Communists were silent about their specific plans, but they were expected to reiterate previous demands for the premier's post and one or more key ministries—foreign affairs, army or interior.

There was a definite possibility that the reins of the government would be vested in a minority party or a coalition. Not to be ruled out, also, was the possibility that all parties might join in a national union cabinet.

Returns were still trickling in slowly from French colonies, but the latest count showed that the Communists had captured about 29 per cent of the votes.

Giant Liners
Bid For Ocean
Luxury Trade

BY ALLAN FISHER

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—Two honorably discharged war veterans, the giant liners Queen Elizabeth and America, docked today at their Hudson river piers before beginning on Thursday their long-delayed rivalry for the transatlantic luxury trade.

The 1,030-foot long Elizabeth, built in 1938 at a cost of $28,750,000, was first in port, completing her second westward commercial crossing. She slipped quietly to her pier in the early morning moonlight with 2,287 passengers aboard, including the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

The hubbub of New York's traditional harbor greeting was reserved for the 723-foot America, which has yet to make its first transatlantic run as a commercial vessel.

Navy planes, a navy blimp, civilian aircraft and two navy destroyers formed an escort of honor for the America as she proudly entered the harbor four hours after the Elizabeth tied up. Fireboats shot plumes of water into the air and ship whistles sounded a gurgling greeting.

Both ships were used as troopships during the war. The $16,000,000 America, launched in 1939, carried 450,000 troops as the navy transport West Point and the Elizabeth, together with the Queen Mary, delivered more than 1,000,000 troops to Europe.

A friendly international rivalry is involved between the two ships. The Elizabeth is owned by the Cunard Line, a British firm, and the America, the largest, fastest and most luxurious ocean liner built in this country, is owned by the United States Lines.

The Elizabeth, a super-heavyweight at 85,000 tons, has a passenger capacity of 2,400. The America, which came here from Newport News, Va., weighs 26,454 tons and carries 1,202 passengers.

TRIBUTES PAID
MICHIGAN MENNational Guard Flags Of Famed 32nd Division
Returned To State

Lansing, Nov. 11 (AP)—Michigan officials received back its National Guard flags today, symbols of the part played by its sons of the famed 32nd Division in World War II.

And the ceremonies amid a panoply of military might signaled the "homecoming" of the men who served in those guard units, but who have been discharged from service individually in the months following V-J Day.

Maj. Gen. Louis A. Craig, wartime commander of the Ninth Infantry Division and now deputy commanding general of the Fifth Army, presented the massed colors to Governor Kelly. They were received on the capital steps by a Michigan color guard.

The flags were placed in the rotunda of the capitol to take their places with the Michigan battle flags of other wars. The colors included those of the 125th Infantry Regiment, the 119th Field Artillery Regiment, 177th Field Artillery Battalion, 182nd Field Artillery Battalion, 943rd Field Artillery Battalion, 949th Field Artillery Battalion, and 393rd Anti-Aircraft Artillery Battalion. Other colors are to be returned at a later date.

General Craig, asserting he had commanded Michigan units in training and in the European theater, asserted "I was impressed from the beginning with the quality of men that made up these organizations and in the extremely fine and loyal response to command leadership."

Des Moines Man, 87,
Father Second Time

Des Moines, Nov. 11 (AP)—Luis Carrizales, 87, who attributes his hardness to chopping wood and thinning himself 40 times a day, became the father again today, the second time in a little more than a year.

A 9-pound 11½ ounce son, as yet unnamed, was born to Carrizales' third wife. The boy was the ninth child of Carrizales, who described himself as half Cherokee Indian and half Spanish. Their daughter, Sandra Kay, was born in October, 1945.

He works regularly for a thrasher firm here, but was off for Armistice Day.

PRICES HIKED
$100 ON NEW
AUTOS BY GMPRODUCTION COSTS
FORCE INCREASES
FOR CARS

Detroit, Nov. 11 (AP)—General Motors, the automobile industry's biggest producer, hiked the prices of its passenger cars $100 today.

The not unexpected announcement, coming after a day-long meeting of General Motors executives, said the increases would place GM's prices "in a more reasonable relation to greatly increased costs of production."

When asked today for comment on the GM action, the Ford Motor Co., which earlier had announced no price increase was contemplated, quoted from a letter sent to 3,200 major Ford suppliers which said in part:

"There is plenty of justification for our raising prices at this time in order to give the company a fair and reasonable profit on its sales."

"However, we feel that it is vitally necessary during this critical period of adjustment that all industry cooperate to avoid precipitous or unjustified increases in price."

Repair Parts Up

The letter was signed by Alfred J. Browning, vice president and director of purchases, who said the company already had been assured by a number of its suppliers that they would maintain present price levels "until and unless substantial future cost increases make such a position impossible."

Browning said Ford intended to adjust prices of certain repair parts in order to correct "unreasonable hardship" incurred under OPA ceilings.

Otherwise, a Ford spokesman said, Browning's letter was intended to express the company's intention to "hold the line."

From the third member of the auto industry's "big three," Chrysler Corporation, there has been no word on possible pricing action.

There was no immediate comment from the CIO United Auto Workers on the GM announcement.

President C. E. Wilson of General Motors ascribed three reasons for the price increase:

1. GM's dollar volume of business in the third quarter of 1946, although "about the same" as the previous peacetime quarterly peak of 1941, was "not on a satisfactory basis."

2. GM's prices as set by OPA "discriminated against General Motors." The OPA pricing formula and "its administration" gave competitors "substantially greater" price increases than were allowed General Motors.

3. OPA had "assumed" production equal that of 1941 but because of basic materials shortages General Motors finds it "impossible" to achieve "any such rate of production at least during the next six months."

General Motors manufactures Cadillac, Pontiac, Chevrolet, Buick and Oldsmobile cars.

GM's announcement said "Effective at once, factory list prices of all passenger car models produced and sold in the United States are increased $100."

"Even with these increases," Wilson said, "General Motors prices will still be relatively low compared with prices now being charged for many other goods and services."

Hirohito Linked
To Jap Conquest
Program In 1941

Tokyo, Tuesday, Nov. 12 (AP)—Japan decided on July 2, 1941, that she was ready to fight America and Britain, her navy began rehearsing that same month for its Pearl Harbor attack, and Emperor Hirohito "believed we could win," said documents read today to the international war crimes court.

It was the nearest approach to date to a direct linking of Hirohito with Japan's war plans.

The emperor's optimism lasted less than a day, according to the diary of a defendant, Koichi Kido, former lord keeper of the privy seal. The diary noted the imperial optimism on July 31, 1941, but added that after an interview with Admiral Osami Nagano that same day, Hirohito was "filled with anxiety about the danger of having to wage a desperate war."

Associate Prosecutor Fihely, on leave from his post as assistant U. S. attorney for the District of Columbia, said Tojo had acknowledged "responsibility" for calling the July 2, 1941, imperial conference which decided Japan was ready to fight.

FATHER OF FIVE
SLAYS HIS WIFEYoung Woman Choked,
Dies In Bed While Children Sleep

Traverse City, Mich., Nov. 11 (AP)—A 28-year-old factory worker, father of five children, was held for prosecution today in the Sunday morning bedroom slaying of his estranged wife.

State Police Capt. Earl J. Hathaway announced a murder charge would be sought against Eugene Nichols, who he said admitted strangling his wife, Lucille, 25, at their home in the city's outskirts.

The young woman was choked to death in her bed while the five children were asleep. A daughter, Lucille, 9, found the body.

Capt. Hathaway and state police detectives said Nichols attributed his act to his brooding over a pending divorce action. Mrs. Nichols had filed suit, charging cruelty.

The couple had married in their teens, and Capt. Hathaway said they had experienced domestic difficulties for the last two or three years.

Hathaway said Nichols, who had left home in August to live with his parents, saw his wife at a dance Saturday night and, after a "few beers," went to the home some time after midnight.

He found his wife in bed, seized and choked her with his hands, then knotted a scarf around her neck, Hathaway said Nichols related.

He smoothed the bed clothes and returned to his parents' home where he was arrested later in the day, Hathaway said. Hathaway said he admitted the slaying this morning after night-long questioning.

Lewis Still Silent
On UMW Demands
In Soft Coal Mines

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—John L. Lewis maintained rigid silence tonight on whatever contract demands he may have handed the government in his first bargaining sessions with Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug.

Four days remained in Lewis' time-table before he gives notice to Krug, with whom he made the current working agreement for 400,000 soft coal miners, that he means to terminate that contract Nov. 20.

But the big mine leader, playing his cards close, gave no inkling publicity of what the miners may expect as the price of peace after November 20. Accompanied by 26 district presidents and other union officials, Lewis conferred with Krug for two and one-half hours. The meeting then recessed until 2:30 p. m., EST, tomorrow.

Detroit Milk Price
Goes To 19 Cents

Detroit, Nov. 11 (AP)—The retail price of milk in Detroit went up a penny a quart today to 19 cents, effective Monday.

Dealers announced the boost through Attorney Carl Burger who said an increase in the producer's price was responsible.

Burger said dealers faced competition for supplies from other cities, notably Chicago and Toledo. He said milk sells for 22 cents in Chicago and 20 in Toledo.

WHITE HOUSE
LONE RANGER
ASKS SUPPORTWELFARE OF NATION
COMES FIRST, SAYS
PRESIDENT

BY WILLIAM C. SPEAR

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—President Truman delivered a conciliatory bid today for cooperation of the GOP congress and Republicans responded cordially although with qualifications.

Breaking his election silence with a policy statement to an Armistice Day news conference, Mr. Truman candidly acknowledged that "the present situation"—the legislative branch Republican and the executive branch Democratic for at least two years—"threatens serious difficulties."

But he said both are equally devoted "to the welfare of our nation" and when differences arise there must be no attempt on either side "to tamper with the public interest in order to achieve personal or partisan advantage."

Harmony Stressed

"I shall cooperate in every proper manner with members of the congress," he added, "and my hope and prayer is that this spirit of cooperation will be reciprocated."

Republican congressional leaders promptly and unanimously said they will cooperate—"cooperate to secure progress and security in the American way," said J. Rep. Martin (R-Mass.), slated to be speaker of the house. Rep. Taber (R-N.Y.), prospective chairman of the house appropriations committee, commented that "when the administration is doing something wrong I always have opposed it and will continue to oppose it."

Senator Brooks (R-Ill.) said if Mr. Truman "wants to follow a really American policy he will get complete cooperation."

The reaction of B. Carroll Reece, GOP national chairman, was that "the people have spoken in unmistakable terms" and their "mandate" is binding upon the executive officials as well as the new congressmen.

The president laid much stress on the desirability of harmony and cooperation in the nation's foreign affairs.

President Won't Resign

"Our foreign policy has been developed and executed on a bipartisan basis," he declared. "I have done my best to strengthen and extend this practice. Members of both parties in and out of the congress have participated in the inner council in preparing, and in actually carrying out, the foreign policies of our government. It has been a national and not a party program. It will continue to be a national program insofar as the secretary of state and I are concerned."

Then he went on to express concern "lest any in either party" should seek in the field of foreign affairs "an opportunity to achieve personal notoriety or partisan advantage by exploitation of the sensational or by the mere creation of controversy."

Reece interpreted that as reference "to Henry A. Wallace, Senator Claude Pepper (D-Fla.) and other spokesmen for the Political Action Committee." Reece said "the description fits them perfectly."

DEER HUNTERS TO SET RECORD
Gearhart Tells Rotary Club 300,000 Will Take To Woods

This year it is expected that 300,000 hunters will take to the woods in Michigan, setting a new record in number for those who seek relaxation as sportsmen, Richard Gearhart, Marquette, representative of the Michigan department of conservation's education division, told the Escanaba Rotary club yesterday.

Gearhart compared the work of the conservation department to that of a service department for a corporation — a corporation in which the people of Michigan are the shareholders. Because the people desire it, the department has provided places to play and relax, has acquired lake and stream frontage for public use, and envisioned enlarged areas for recreation nearer industrial areas.

The people of Michigan have a stake in the game and fish, Gearhart said, and compared the work of the game warden with that of a bank robber who in stealing from a bank takes something from the stockholders.

In early times in Europe, Gearhart pointed out, the first game wardens were hired by men of wealth and nobility to protect their private game preserves. The idea that the common man has a right to hunt and fish is peculiar to America — yet there are persons who look upon today's conservation officers as did the people in Europe centuries ago, when game wardens were not permitted Christian burials, Gearhart added.

Services provided by the conservation department this hunting season include the registration of hunters so they may be more easily located in emergencies when they are in the woods, Gearhart said.

During the hunting season conservation officers spend about 40 per cent of their time looking for lost hunters, and when a hunter is found there should be an immediate report to conservation officers so the hunt may be called off, he added. Careful handling of firearms for greater safety was urged, but Gearhart said that on the whole hunting is a safe sport and "statistically speaking the hunter is safer in the woods than he is at home."

Earthquake Razes Peru Town, Over 30 Reported Dead

Lima, Peru, Nov. 11 (AP)—The interior ministry announced tonight that an earthquake which struck Peru shortly after noon yesterday had destroyed the town of Sihuas, 23 miles north of Lima, and killed at least 30 persons.

As Associated Press reporter at Trujillo said the earthquake also struck Santiago de Chuco and Moyebamba in the Libertad department as well as Cabana in the Ancash department. Both departments are north of Lima.

Moyebamba, which apparently was near the epicenter, was reported completely destroyed. Details of conditions there were lacking because the shock had severed land wire communications.

Plan Honor Court For Garden Scouts

A Boy Scout court of honor will be held in Garden Wednesday evening, Nov. 13, for units of that area, consisting of Troops 421 of Nahma, 425 of Garden, 460, 461 and 462 of Manistique, and 464 of Cochrane.

A large group of Scouts is anticipated to receive awards for achievements made in Scouting. Also there will be recognition of advancements in Scouting by the adult leaders of the various units.

The court will be under the direction of Scoutmaster Edward LaMott of Garden, who invites the public to attend the ceremony.

New Deal Fugitive Returns To U.S. As Republicans Win

Miami, Fla., Nov. 11 (AP)—Howard Spencer, of New York and Palm Beach, who moved to the Bahamas in 1939 because of a feud with the late President Roosevelt, said today that he had returned to the United States for the first time in eight years because of the Republican election victory Nov. 5.

Spencer, who has been living at Harbor Island, Eleuthera, Bahamas, said the election "shook me out of my hermitage."

He used to live on the 500-acre estate called "Krum Elbow," across the Hudson river from the late president's Hyde Park home. In 1939 he turned his spacious estate over to the Negro cult leader, Father Devine, for his cult "heaven."

Spencer, who arrived here today, said he had kept his home on the Hudson and was now headed north to "air out my part of heaven."

Spencer said he had not been in the U. S. since 1939 when Coast Guardsmen searched his yacht on which he was living at Pompano, Fla. He claimed the search damaged the yacht and in "retaliation" to President Roosevelt, he moved from the United States to the Bahamas.

No Foreign Policy Change Foreseen By Secretary Byrnes

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes firmly asserted tonight that United States foreign policy would remain unchanged by the Republican election victory, and pledged anew this nation's cooperation in keeping "this world free from fear and needless want."

"The American people voted for a change in the control of Congress," he told the foreign press association. "They did not vote for a change in foreign policy. Our foreign policy is not a Democrat or Republican policy. It is an American policy."

The secretary was one of a half-dozen speakers to address the assembly, including two of his colleagues at the foreign ministers council here—British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

Hollywood—Phil Harris, the crinkly-haired Man from the South, built a fortune on a fast-paced song and a carefully built-up reputation as a drinker, illiterate and woman chaser.

Really, he's a happily settled married man, a moderate imbibor, and a pretty sharp guy with the words. He thinks folks must know that the outrages personality built up for him during his 11 years as Jack Benny's bandleader is a phony.

Else how could he and Alice Faye, his wife, have got away with launching their own program this season, NBC's Sunday "Bandwagon," featuring them in comical domestic situations?

Big, tanned Phil is still the grinning, perennial college-boy type, however, a nervous man for whom life must move fast. "My business has always been rhythm and good, solid lyrics," he boomed. "Gimme a slow tune and I die a thousand deaths."

Alice, the big, beautiful blonde star of pictures like "Alexander's Ragtime Band" and "In Old Chicago" has two films to go on her 20th Century-Fox contract but is in no hurry to make them. "I'm needed here at home with the children," she said, "and Phil is one of them." Alice is 4 and Phyllis is 2.

Phil and Alice live in a large, tree-shaded home in suburban Encino. When Phil talks, his bass voice rumbles all over the living room. He uses words like "ain't" and "git" because "that's Harris."

Phil a bandleader for 20 years, has no idea how many hundreds of times he has played and sung, "That's What I Like About the South." It's his own copyrighted song, evolved by himself and his band.

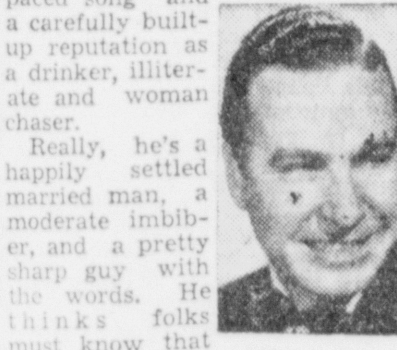

"It's been like a father to me," he said; "I wouldn't mutilate it by having it published."

"We cooked it up in 1933. We'd finish playin' a number, and the dancers would be standin' around with their hands in their pockets while we played an eight-bar wait before goin' into the next number. 'I can't stand a lull. I started putting words into the eight bars, and the people loved it. It topped up that wait. We worked out a bunch of eight-bar combinations and called 'em 'The Groove Song.'"

This became, under a different title, Phil's trademark, for which people in every state of the Union have offered lyrics. It starts: "Won't you come with me to Alabama—y? Let's go see my dear old mammy. She's fryin' eggs and broilin' ham-mv. That's What I Like about the South."

PRICES HIKED $100 ON NEW AUTOS BY GM

All Chevrolet trucks also would be increased $100. Prices of larger trucks and coaches had been previously adjusted and "no general change" was contemplated at this time.

"This announcement of new factory list prices," Wilson said, "is made immediately in order that the free flow of automobiles to customers may not be interrupted due to uncertainty on the part of dealers and the public concerning delivered prices."

The corporation said OPA recently had authorized price increases of up to 15 per cent on automotive parts and that no "general adjustment" of such parts prices would be made now.

Adjustments in the prices of certain GM household appliances will be announced later, General Motors said. It said there would be no general increases in the prices of diesel electric locomotives or of other diesel engines or diesel power units.

The automobile industry long has complained of shortages in basic raw materials, one of the points cited by General Motors for its price increase decision. These materials include lead, copper, zinc, and steel.

Total volume production of cars for the current year probably will not go far above 2,000,000 units, or about 50 per cent of the volume hoped for when 1946 production plans were made.

Farmers Marooned In Colorado Snow; Temperature Drops

Denver, Nov. 11 (AP)—Continued freezing weather was in prospect tonight and tomorrow for snow-bound Coloradans as efforts continued along the eastern plains to take aid to scores of marooned farm families.

The American Red Cross appealed to Fifth Army headquarters in Chicago for permission to use vessels and other snow equipment available at Camp Carson, near Colorado Springs, to carry supplies to more than 100 families snowbound 10 days in Lincoln county.

The Public Service Company dispatched a ski truck, with skis in front and caterpillar treads in back, to the Hugo area and another to the vicinity of Limon.

The weather bureau predicted that temperatures tonight would be little above the lows recorded last night. Lowest official temperature in the state was at Fort Collins where it was seven below.

Bill To Ban Closed Shop Proposed For Action Of Congress

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—Senator Bill (B-Minn.) said today that when the new Congress convenes Jan. 3, he will be ready to introduce a bill outlawing the closed shop, which he branded the "most reactionary thing in our industrial picture."

Ball said he would propose that the Wagner Act be amended so as to prohibit making membership in a union a condition of employment.

"I think the closed shop is the most reactionary and illiberal thing that we've got in our industrial picture," he said. "There is no real justification for it any more."

Ball said that if the recent elections meant any sort of mandate, it was a mandate to do something about labor-management relations. He said he looked for a great deal of legislation on the subject.

Manistique News Beat Escanaba

Local Keglers

A picked five from Manistique had somewhat the best of it in a match between Harry Gafner's team from Escanaba at the La-Poille alleys Sunday afternoon.

The Escanaba crew led by 48 pins in the first game, the score being 900 to 852, but Manistique led the second game, 928 to 817, and the last one 968 to 864.

W. Kraiger of Escanaba had the highest score of the afternoon—223, while Joe Kovach and Ed Busch, of Manistique, rolled up 220 each in a game.

Making up the teams were: Escanaba, A. Gafner, E. Nelson, A. Kidd, W. Kraiger and H. Gafner; Manistique, Joe Kovach, Ed Busch, Phil Brazeau, Joe Burnette and Emery Barnes.

Leftists Run Ahead In Rome Election, Setback To Premier

Rome, Nov. 11. (AP)—Nearly complete returns from Sunday's municipal elections showed that the leftist "Bloc of the People"—a combine of the Communist, Socialist and two smaller parties—gained a sweeping victory in Rome, administering a sharp setback to Premier Alcide De Gasperi's Christian Democrats.

Returns from 1,080 of Rome's polling sections gave the Bloc of the People 153,996 votes.

Guglielmo Giannini's Uomo Qualunque (Common Man) movement, often accused of Fascist tendencies by leftist factions, was in second place with 93,034 votes, while the Christian Democrats were running third with 88,987.

Leftist parties also were running ahead in other large Italian cities on the basis of still incomplete returns.

Maureen O'Hara Evades Kidnapers

Dublin, Nov. 11 (AP)—Officials of Radio Eireann disclosed today what they described as an apparent attempt to kidnap film star Maureen O'Hara.

They told this story: Shortly before 11 p. m. last night a large black limousine containing several men and a woman called at the home of Miss O'Hara's parents, where she is visiting. The woman said they had been sent by Radio Eireann to take Miss O'Hara to a midnight broadcast.

The woman, a stranger to the family, departed after being told repeatedly that Miss O'Hara had other means of transportation. When the actress related the story to radio station officials they said the station had not sent a car.

HOMAGE PAID HEROIC DEAD OF TWO WARS

gestions.

The President said it was just what he had been urging since August, 1945, when the war ended.

Porter, reached at his office while thousands of other government workers enjoyed the holiday, said he hoped to trim the OPA staff to about 12,000 by the end of this year.

This would compare with a war-time peak of 63,428 employees in July, 1945, and a staff of 34,700 last month before the recent series of sweeping decontrol actions.

Porter's aides said thousands of employees must be retained because a number of tasks remain to be done. Among these tasks they listed the following:

OPA still must maintain rent ceilings in 650 rental areas throughout the nation and it also must continue price lids upon rice, sugar and syrups. The agency has a large number of violation cases to conclude and it also must complete an historical record of its five years of operations.

Many officials expect OPA, the civilian production administration and other surviving war agencies to be lumped into a single agency. Porter said this action "has not been crystallized as yet" and probably would be decided by the federal budget bureau.

Thomas Promises Quick Settlement At Allis-Chalmers

Chicago, Nov. 11 (AP)—R. J. Thomas, CIO United Auto Workers vice president, who is meeting with Allis-Chalmers officials in effort to end the six months' id strike at the firm's West Allis, Wis., plant, said today that settlement of the dispute was possible "within a week."

Thomas, assigned by the union's international policy committee to attempt bringing about a quick settlement acceptable to the union, added that the union's negotiating committee was willing to meet "morning, noon and night" until an agreement was reached.

"I hope the management representatives feel the same way," he said.

Attending the conference were Milwaukee officials of UAW Local 248's negotiating committee; Noel P. Fox, Muskegon, Mich., special government conciliator, and O. F. Ohrman, negotiating committee chairman for the Farm Equipment Manufacturing company.

The strike at the firm's main plant started April 29.

KIWANIS HEARS TALK BY VOSS

Operations Of Worth Co. Are Described By Engineer

Operations of the Worth company of Stevens Point, Wis., which will establish a factory in Escanaba after the first of the year, were described by J. A. Voss, production manager of the concern, at the meeting of the Kiwanis club yesterday noon.

Mr. Voss said that Joe Worth started the fishing tackle industry in 1941 with a crew of five persons, and now has 180 employed at Stevens Point and a branch plant at Amherst, Wis. The concern manufactures flies, baits, spoons, spinners and other fishing tackle.

During the war, it also engaged in the production of split rings, which previously were imported from Czechoslovakia and other European countries. Mr. Voss said that automatic machinery will be installed at the Escanaba plant to continue the manufacture of this item. Other products include stirrups used in the construction of concrete buildings and memorandums.

Mr. Voss explained that it takes about five or six months to train a girl to tie flies at the rate of 10 to 12 dozen per day. It is expected that the Escanaba plant will employ about 150 persons before the end of 1947. About sixty per cent of the personnel will be women. All of the work is of the light type, and Mr. Voss said that disabled veterans can be employed at some of the tasks.

Material shortages have been delaying production in the fishing tackle industry, Mr. Voss said. Fortunately, hooks are beginning to become available again, but Spanish gut and hackles are still in short supply.

Metal stamping machinery for the making of spinners, spoons, memorandums and other stampings already has arrived in Escanaba and is being stored in the E. & L. S. railway shops. Mr. Voss said that satisfactory progress is being made on the factory building, which is located between

Jesuit Priest Speaks On Cooperative System

The cooperative system of economy is economic democracy in action, Rev. Fr. Anthony J. Adams, S. J., St. Louis, Mo., declared in a series of talks in the Upper Peninsula during the past several days. Father Adams, director of the Institute of Social Order of the National Rural Life Conference, spoke at Gladstone, Rock, Chatham, Stephenson, Munising, Marquette, Trenary and Hancock under the auspices of the Northland Cooperative Federation.

"Destroy economic democracy, and political democracy cannot long survive except in name," Father Adams declared. "And with the passing of political democracy we can expect a denial of the free exercise of the rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Defines Economic Democracy
The Jesuit priest defined economic democracy as that system of economy in which the exchange of food, clothing, shelter and services is jointly controlled by producer and consumer; votes on economic policy are based on individuals, not shares; the welfare of man takes precedence over profit dollars; and cooperative enterprise makes possible widespread family ownership of productive property.

"Such an economy is essential to the preservation of real democracy," Father Adams continued. "The cooperative movement, so long as it adheres to the Seven Rochdale Principles, is that system of economy in action; yet there are those who expend huge sums of money and plenty of effort in an endeavor to destroy the cooperative movement."

"Totalitarian governments cannot countenance a true cooperative because the democratic structure of a cooperative is diametrically opposed to totalitarianism. Totalitarian groups, Nazi, Fascist or Communist work one and the same principle, namely that the citizen belongs to the State, and has rights which are inalienable among which are the rights to life, liberty and property. Since the cooperative system of economy makes ownership possible for the individual, a totalitarian group cannot tolerate such an economy."

"No small part of the confusion which exists in our economy today is due to lack of thought on the part of the ordinary citizen. Not until the ordinary citizen starts to think will we be on our way out of the great danger which threatens our democracy. We are at the crossroads. If we continue to speak and act on slogans alone we shall reach a state of anarchy which can end only in totalitarianism."

"That would be very much to the liking of the Communists, the last strong group of totalitarians. Economic dictators in their greed fail to realize the truth of this. It then remains for the common people, those in the cooperative movement, the small manufacturers and business men to start working their problems out at the grass-root level. That calls for study, discussion, and action. When the study has been made, it will readily appear that far from being an enemy of the small business man, the co-ops are his best friends. The true American way of life is one which permits anyone to develop himself fully—socially, economically, culturally, and spiritually, without prejudice to the rights of others and without either political or economic dictatorship.

Democracy at Crossroads
"But because two small groups, the one political, the other economic, are pushing toward another global conflict to determine which shall use the rest of us as a 'sucker group' the people at large have grown confused and instead of thinking for ourselves we rely upon slogans to answer objections. Too many take for granted that we must choose between the conflicting parties, that there is no alternative beyond laissez-faire capitalism and communism. Truly, America is at the crossroads, democracy is at the crossroads. That of itself implies the possibility of a choice. The whole economy, for a great many reasons cannot possibly ever become entirely cooperative. That is a physical and moral impossibility. Family ownership of productive property is not merely an ideal, it is a natural right. When the cooperative movement has proven so repeatedly that it makes possible widespread family ownership of productive property, an American ideal, such an economy deserves our diligent study, discussion and action if we still believe in democracy. It is not offered to the capitalist system as such, it is, in fact, the capitalist system run on a democratic rather than a dictatorial basis. There is no true liberty without law; so called liberty without law in jungle philosophy and leads to anarchy and ultimately to totalitarianism."

"The question is, shall we stand at the crossroads of democracy, with our eyes shut and wait for someone to lead us into captivity at either end of the road cutting to the extreme left or to the extreme right, or shall we get out the road map in the form of economic study that puts first value on man instead of the dollar, and talking it over in discussion groups, free ourselves of the shackles of both extremes and forge ahead with an economy of abundance?"

Welcome Candidacy

THE candidacy of Glenn W. Jackson, of Gladstone, for the office of circuit judge of the 25th judicial district should be generously welcomed by the voters of the district who will be called upon next spring to select a successor to Judge Frank Bell, of Negaunee.

In the announcement of his candidacy for the most important judicial office in the district, Mr. Jackson explicitly pointed out that he is not seeking support as a favor to himself, emphasizing that the office of circuit judge is of such importance to the people of the circuit that it should not be handed out as a favor to any candidate. The determining factor must necessarily be qualification in law and ability to discharge the duties of the circuit court fairly.

Mr. Jackson wholly measures up to those requirements, as his record of 36 years in the legal profession, 34 years of which he has practiced in his home community of Gladstone, so vividly substantiates.

That Mr. Jackson's candidacy has resulted from numerous and insistent requests from his fellow practitioners, as well as from others who are equally keenly interested in the perpetuation of the highest ideals on the circuit bench, cannot be questioned.

His candidacy should be warmly received throughout the district.

One Memorial Day

OBSERVANCE of Armistice day was a somewhat quiet affair in Escanaba and many other cities throughout the country, indicating that Nov. 11, a memorable date in World War I, is losing its importance on the calendar of holidays.

Like the important dates of Civil, Spanish-American and other previous wars, Armistice day has been superseded by the anniversaries of historic battles and surrenders in World War II. First we celebrated the anniversary of V-E day and last August 14, we observed V-J day.

When great victories in war are fresh in mind, the dates are occasion for riotous celebration, but the observance, having a tendency to become quieter with the passing years. One holiday, however, seems to become more significant as time goes on, and that is Memorial Day.

Memorial day is a day when the nation takes a full holiday and pays tribute to the soldier dead of all wars. Eventually it may be that all veterans organizations will concentrate their efforts on the observance of Memorial day, and disperse with the half-hearted celebrations of other eventful days in past wars.

Anyway, it seems that we are getting too many partial holidays, which provide merely a good excuse for employees of city, county, state and federal agencies to close up shop and take it easy while the taxpayers remain at work in the factories, stores and other private commercial establishments.

Too Costly for Vets

THE new commander of the American Legion, Col. Paul H. Griffith, advises veterans not to buy or build now, saying that they cannot afford, in this period of inflation, to take on the responsibility of $10,000 for a $4,000 house.

The American Legion official says that the law establishing veterans preferences and priorities turned out to provide only "licenses to hunt materials." During the war, he points out, priorities were extended back to the manufacturer, but, in connection with veterans' homes, the priorities do not go back to the manufacturer who can sell to whom he pleases.

We are quite sure that many veterans will be interested in any steps that will improve what seems to be a failure to provide houses for veterans at reasonable cost. Just how this is to be accomplished, in a free market, without governmental controls, escapes us, but we are in favor of anything that will make home available to homeless veterans, at reasonable cost.

Chartered Bigotry

THE police of Atlanta, Ga., did an alert and commendable job in stopping an organization called the Columbians at a moment when its members seemed about to start a Grade A race riot. Four of the members have been arrested on a charge of inciting to riot, which is about as far as Atlanta can go now.

For the Columbians, having presented a statement of their objectives, were granted a charter by a state court last August. Until that charter is revoked, it appears that the group has a right to hold meetings and continue its planning. It is unlikely that its impulsive ringleaders will make the mistake of hot-headed daylight activity again—at least in Atlanta.

The Columbians didn't obtain their charter through deception or falsehood. Their application stated that it was among the organization's purposes "to encourage our people to think in terms of race, nation and faith" and "to build a progressive white community." The Georgia courts must know the connotation of "race" and "white" well enough by now to know that their blessing was being given to a Klanish outfit when the Columbians were chartered.

A more specific list of the Columbians' aims has thoughtfully been supplied, since his arrest and release on bail, by Homer Loomis, Jr., the group's secretary and a transplanted New Yorker.

"The Columbians expect to spread through the city of Atlanta," he told a New York Times reporter. "We want political control, and as our power increases here we plan to expand through Georgia, then the South, then the nation."

A United Press correspondent who interviewed Loomis said that the latter proclaimed his objectives as follows: To control the United States by making the Columbians politically dominant in all 48 states; to make the United States into an "American nationalist state"; to deport all Negroes to Africa; to make America a "one-race nation."

It would be a mistake simply to dismiss such talk as crackpot ravings. Hitler was a crack-pot, too, who started with a handful of crack-pot followers. The Klan had a similar beginning. But both Nazism and the Klan increased tremendously in an atmosphere of complacency and disbelief. Organized bigotry, whatever it chooses to call itself, can count on similar success under similar conditions.

It would also be a mistake to think that these bigots are less dangerous than Communists because they are more stupid. However bungling their efforts, they still have power to endanger the lives of American citizens, strengthen the hand of the Communists, and discredit this country before the world.

Responsible Georgians already bear the shame of a brutal lynching which remains unsolved because of their less responsible neighbors' conspiracy of silence. Surely those who cherish their state's god name will insist that this organization of Columbians be disbanded.

But that, of course, will not kill the spirit of Hitlerism and Klanism. The bigots will proclaim their "Americanism" and, invoking the constitutional freedoms of speech and assembly, continue to plot the stifling of freedom and the spread of terror. Disbanded, they will reorganize and grow, not only in Georgia but wherever racial tension exists.

They will continue to flourish until the rest of us become more fully conscious that eternal vigilance—against the radicalism of the extreme right as well as the extreme left—is still the price of liberty.

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

New York—Against the background of an election campaign that dealt largely in name-calling and trivia the issues to be settled by the United Nations and the Council of Foreign Ministers loom like distant, snow-covered mountain peaks. Here are the Himalayas, the ranges that seem beyond the reach of man in his present stage of development.

There is, of course, plenty of name-calling in these world assemblies. The delegates sometimes behave like ward bosses trying to subdue their henchmen. Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov in his speech to the general assembly hurled propaganda and abuse at his fellow delegates in generous volume.

But while they spend a great deal of time in irrelevant argument, the delegates meeting here cannot forget what the stakes are. So much of the talk of boundaries, of trusteeships, of commissions, is window dressing. It is all so much camouflage unless there is agreement on the central issue which is the control of atomic energy.

—HARD TO RECONCILE—

A showdown on that issue is likely to come much sooner than anyone expects. And what happens to the whole apparatus of world cooperation after that showdown is a question in many minds. For it is hard to see how the American and Russian viewpoints ever can be reconciled.

At the heart of the American proposal is a system of inspection that would permit agents of an atomic development authority to go anywhere in any nation in the world. The Russians propose an international disarmament agreement that would include atomic weapons; nothing is said in the Russian proposal about international enforcement of such an agreement.

Those Americans who know Soviet Russia most intimately believe that the USSR can never accept international inspection. Since inspection is the root of the American plan, it is hard to see how the two parallel lines ever can meet on any practical or workable basis.

In the USSR the state is supreme in every department of life. Its supremacy is unquestioned. Even to question it is a form of treason. The mere presence inside Russia of inspectors with an authority greater than that of the state would in itself be demoralizing. As the Russian state is constituted today, it simply could not happen.

That is the unvarnished truth behind all the sparring over international control of atomic energy. On the other hand, the American public and their representatives in congress would never be content to rest in a disarmament agreement that depended on the good faith of the nations signing the agreement.

—WE'RE TOO SUSPICIOUS—

Our suspicions are too deep-rooted for that. We remember that we disarmed in the '20s. We tend to forget, of course, the reason why we disarmed. While there was a surface of idealism, expressed in the Kellogg pact, the real reason for our disarmament was our basic isolation and our indifference to the rest of the world.

It would seem that the two parallel lines of policy never can meet except in war. But those who have the most knowledge do not accept this final verdict.

Changes are occurring inside Russia. Events in Europe have forced a recasting of Russian policy. The masters of the Kremlin fully believed that with the end of the war all of Europe would be their vassalage under a series of Titos.

They have had to retreat from that expectation. In one election after another the people of one country after another have rejected the absolute of Communism. They have rejected revolution, with its destruction of all past values, for evolution along the path of socialist democracy.

Some of the elections have produced astonishing results. In Bulgaria, a Slavic state, directly under the shadow of the USSR, with Russia plumping for everything Bulgaria wants, 26 per cent of the people voted against Communism. They voted that way after an open threat that such a vote would be regarded as treason and that a traitor could expect the same kind of treatment that was given Mihailovich in Yugoslavia.

To western Europe, Stalinism has the look of an alien, a non-Europe, and force. This rejection, taken along with Russia's internal troubles, may force a further retreat. While no one with knowledge is naive enough to think in terms of an overthrow, new policies and new policy-makers may evolve.

Even though the showdown on atomic energy seems to leave us at a dead end, there is only one course to follow. That is to carry on the patient but firm day-to-day exchange as is the policy of Secretary of State Byrnes.

The "get touch" policy is as foolish and as fatal as pure appeasement. Anger, denunciation, and recrimination are just what the Russians want. That would help them in their thus-far-failing struggle to win world opinion.

INVITING CRIME (Marquette Mining Journal)

Seventeen of 19 automobiles stolen by the 18-year-old Marquette youth apprehended last week by city police were left parked with doors unlocked and keys in the ignition switches.

No one has a right to steal an automobile, regardless of where or in what condition it is left by its owner, but the person who is careless enough to leave doors of his car unlocked and the ignition key in the switch is entitled to no sympathy if someone drives it away. In these days of growing youth delinquency such carelessness, viewed realistically, is an invitation to crime. Those 17 Marquette county automobile owners actually were contributing to youth delinquency.

Some time ago Probate Judge Rushton, in a letter to the city commission, advocated adoption of an ordinance making it a misdemeanor for a driver to leave his car parked with ignition key in the switch. Ordinances of that kind have brought good results in other cities. They have, the judge asserts, sharply reduced auto thefts by youths. His recommendation is sound and deserves serious consideration by the commission.

WORDS TO WATCH

Almost everyone has in his speech certain pet mispronunciations of which he is totally unaware, despite the fact that he seldom or never hears the mispronunciations from the lips of others. This failure to hear one's own pronouncing errors is hard to explain. It must be that we are so used to our own speech that we never really listen to the way we speak.

How else can one account for the mispronunciation of the word obstacles in the speech of a young naval lieutenant who, during the war in the Pacific, commanded an underwater demolition unit in clearing invasion beaches of all sorts of obstacles? During a 30-minute talk, in which he described the important and highly dangerous preinvasion operations of his unit, he used the word "ob-STACK-ulz" perhaps fifty times, his business was obstacles, and he had never learned the word is pronounced: OB-stuh-k'lz!

Likewise, a certain advertising and publicity counsel has always said "pew-BLISS-ity" for publicity. A Mid-Western teacher reports that a noted educator, in addressing the teachers' assembly, pronounced education as "ed-JOO-cative."

A famous American author and economist invariably says "DET-er-ent" for deterrent (dee-TUR-ent). A network commentator for years has mispronounced the word heroic, saying "HAIR-oh-ik," instead of: hee-ROE-ik.

A cultured woman of my acquaintance told me recently that she had just learned not to say "renumeration" for remuneration.

It was only recently that I discovered that my own pronunciation of the word

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

New York—Against the background of an election campaign that dealt largely in name-calling and trivia the issues to be settled by the United Nations and the Council of Foreign Ministers loom like distant, snow-covered mountain peaks. Here are the Himalayas, the ranges that seem beyond the reach of man in his present stage of development.

There is, of course, plenty of name-calling in these world assemblies. The delegates sometimes behave like ward bosses trying to subdue their henchmen. Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov in his speech to the general assembly hurled propaganda and abuse at his fellow delegates in generous volume.

But while they spend a great deal of time in irrelevant argument, the delegates meeting here cannot forget what the stakes are. So much of the talk of boundaries, of trusteeships, of commissions, is window dressing. It is all so much camouflage unless there is agreement on the central issue which is the control of atomic energy.

—HARD TO RECONCILE—

A showdown on that issue is likely to come much sooner than anyone expects. And what happens to the whole apparatus of world cooperation after that showdown is a question in many minds. For it is hard to see how the American and Russian viewpoints ever can be reconciled.

At the heart of the American proposal is a system of inspection that would permit agents of an atomic development authority to go anywhere in any nation in the world. The Russians propose an international disarmament agreement that would include atomic weapons; nothing is said in the Russian proposal about international enforcement of such an agreement.

Those Americans who know Soviet Russia most intimately believe that the USSR can never accept international inspection. Since inspection is the root of the American plan, it is hard to see how the two parallel lines ever can meet on any practical or workable basis.

In the USSR the state is supreme in every department of life. Its supremacy is unquestioned. Even to question it is a form of treason. The mere presence inside Russia of inspectors with an authority greater than that of the state would in itself be demoralizing. As the Russian state is constituted today, it simply could not happen.

That is the unvarnished truth behind all the sparring over international control of atomic energy. On the other hand, the American public and their representatives in congress would never be content to rest in a disarmament agreement that depended on the good faith of the nations signing the agreement.

—WE'RE TOO SUSPICIOUS—

Our suspicions are too deep-rooted for that. We remember that we disarmed in the '20s. We tend to forget, of course, the reason why we disarmed. While there was a surface of idealism, expressed in the Kellogg pact, the real reason for our disarmament was our basic isolation and our indifference to the rest of the world.

It would seem that the two parallel lines of policy never can meet except in war. But those who have the most knowledge do not accept this final verdict.

Changes are occurring inside Russia. Events in Europe have forced a recasting of Russian policy. The masters of the Kremlin fully believed that with the end of the war all of Europe would be their vassalage under a series of Titos.

They have had to retreat from that expectation. In one election after another the people of one country after another have rejected the absolute of Communism. They have rejected revolution, with its destruction of all past values, for evolution along the path of socialist democracy.

Some of the elections have produced astonishing results. In Bulgaria, a Slavic state, directly under the shadow of the USSR, with Russia plumping for everything Bulgaria wants, 26 per cent of the people voted against Communism. They voted that way after an open threat that such a vote would be regarded as treason and that a traitor could expect the same kind of treatment that was given Mihailovich in Yugoslavia.

To western Europe, Stalinism has the look of an alien, a non-Europe, and force. This rejection, taken along with Russia's internal troubles, may force a further retreat. While no one with knowledge is naive enough to think in terms of an overthrow, new policies and new policy-makers may evolve.

Even though the showdown on atomic energy seems to leave us at a dead end, there is only one course to follow. That is to carry on the patient but firm day-to-day exchange as is the policy of Secretary of State Byrnes.

BETTER HUNTERS—Within a few days the 1946 deer hunting season will begin. When it is over, as usual, the conservation department will compile statistics showing that the hunters who came to Michigan from other states—the non-resident hunters—were more successful than the hunters who live in Michigan the year around.

Last deer season conservation department figures revealed that one out of two non-resident hunters got their bucks, while resident hunters were far less successful—only one of about three filling their licenses. So you may draw your own percentages if you're inclined, here are the figures: Resident hunters in total numbered 261,187 and they killed 94,121 bucks. Non-resident hunters totaled 4,984 in number and they killed 2,695 bucks.

As one editor of an Upper Peninsula newspaper remarked, "there is something rotten in Denmark." More specifically he might have written that there's something rotten in Michigan.

HOW IT HAPPENS—On the face of it there is reason to suspect that Michigan hunters are helping non-resident hunters kill deer to be taken out of the state. To those who know the situation even moderately well, there is not even a suspicion—they know it as a fact.

There are two reasons why non-resident hunters are, statistically speaking, better hunters than the men who live here the year around. The non-resident hunter is either prepared to pay well for his buck, or he has it offered to him as a gift. And the man from Illinois, or Indiana, Wisconsin, or Ohio, drives home with the deer he didn't kill just as proudly as if he had shot it himself. To hear him tell it, he has just returned from one of the most rugged hunting trips of his life.

DEER FOR SALE—From the sporting standpoint (and this talk of being a "good sportsman" is something you often hear) the man who sells a deer or buys one is a poor sportsman indeed. But there are a thousand excuses offered both by residents and non-residents for this traffic in venison, and not one of them is either reasonable or extenuating—at least from the standpoint of the true sportsman.

There are deer hunters in the Upper Peninsula, and in the Lower Peninsula too, we suppose, who make a business of selling bucks during the hunting season. These men are "good" hunters. They know every runway. Many of them maintain salt licks or scalfolds (both illegal) near their camp. Others of their stamp use an artificial light and hunt at night, also illegal.

But they do get a lot of deer during one 15-day season. The price per buck they receive varies according to circumstances. If the non-resident hunter has a fat wallet and is willing to pay, the price has been known to go as high as $200. The sale price ranges downward to as low as $5.

WILLING TO PAY—It is no secret among professional deer salesmen, but this may surprise some city folks. The man in the deer-selling business knows of many hunters from other states, or from downstate, who had not filled a buck himself in many years—yet is touted among his home-town friends as quite a deer slayer.

Each November this man and his friends hunt for deer after a fashion. If they get a deer they sell it for more than they expect. As the season nears its end, or the date of their departure draws near, they start hunting with their money. Invariably this is successful and the whole party will go home with bucks lashed to cars and trailers. Their reputation as "big game hunters" has been saved.

SOME ARE GIFTS—Not all bucks are sold to out-state hunters. Many are given away. The Michigan hunter who is unsuccessful in getting a buck himself might question the right of a professional hunter to kill and give away one or more deer to his friends, but they seldom do. It is a practice usually winked at rather than frowned upon.

It happens this way. Joe Doakes and his friends have a camp at Woodsy Wilds, and each November Joe has some of his relatives and their friends from Keokuk come up for the hunting season. Joe and his local party feel a responsibility for the Keokuk folks, and they make sure that they all go back with deer—or at least so far as possible.

Joe and his more experienced pals will hunt from morning until night, killing just as many deer as they can. When the time comes to break camp the biggest bucks go to the guests—but there is usually a deer for everyone, all killed by two or three members of the party.

practices are almost impossible to stamp out, although conservation officers make a determined effort to do so. The answer, of course,

Q. Under the G. I. apprenticeship programs, how much are apprentices required to spend?

A. They must spend at least four hours a week in related classroom instruction, or 144 hours per year during each year of the apprenticeship. If some of the trainees are not required to take this instruction, some arrangement must have been approved by the Veterans Administration.

Q. How many organizations have been authorized to present claims for veterans with the Veterans Administration?

A. A total of sixty-six recognized organizations are now authorized to present claims for veterans with the Veterans Administration.

Q. Why is the air in the spring, when the ice and snow are melting, always very chilly and cold?

A. Solid bodies, in passing to the liquid state, absorb heat in large quantities; when ice and snow are thawing, they absorb heat from the air, in consequence of which its temperature is greatly reduced.

Q. Why do we never see the other side of the moon?

A. The moon's rotation is the same as that of its revolution around the earth.

Q. On what date was the political entity of the "Solid South" dissolved after the Civil War?

A. On November 4, 1923, when Florida, Texas, North Carolina, and Virginia, voted for Hoover.

Q. Is there any possible way in which I might remove a metallic stain from a piece of wearing apparel?

A. In removing these stains avoid the use of oxidizing agents such as a bleaching powder and potassium permanganate. The following method is usually effective: Apply dilute acetic acid, hydrochloric acid, vinegar or lemon juice. Rinse well as soon as stain has dissolved.

Q. What is the distinguishing feature of a Moorish arch?

A. The curved portion is more than a semi-circle, which makes the upper part of the arch wider than the door or window.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—The President's former naval aide, Commodore Jake Vardaman of Missouri, is up to his old tricks. Though elevated to a 14-year job at $15,000 a year on the Federal Reserve Board, highest fiscal agency in government, Vardaman has been put back on active navy duty and is trying to get disability retirement. This means that he may get a nice pension for life.

Vardaman has now gone out to Bethesda Naval hospital for treatment and for appearance before a medical board, which apparently was why he was put back on active duty again. While on active duty he continues as a member of the Federal Reserve Board, though just how he manages this, no one seems to know.

If an officer on active duty is retired for disability, he then draws a pension equal to three-quarters of his base pay—for life. Furthermore he doesn't have to pay income taxes on this pension.

Thus, if Vardaman is retired for disability by the medical survey board, he will draw his $15,000 federal reserve board salary for 14 years, and after that will get a pension of about $3,000.

When Vardaman first came to Washington for the hazardous duty of swimming in the White House pool and playing poker with other Missourians after sundown, he suddenly discovered that an officer attached to a yacht anchored in the Potomac could draw seagoing pay—or 10 per cent more. Immediately Vardaman rushed round to the navy and got himself attached to the Presidential Yacht Williamsburg.

Actually he never slept on the yacht, except when cruising with the President over the weekend, but he got 10 per cent seagoing pay just the same.

Later Vardaman ordered several enlisted men to paint and repair his house in Georgetown—all at the taxpayers' expense. Their compensation was beer and sandwiches. This is the kind of economic expert now supposed to fix the nation's financial policy on the highest economic board in the USA.

Note to Senator Donnell of Missouri—Though the navy doesn't particularly like Vardaman, they foxed you regarding his personal fitness record during your fight against his confirmation. The file containing Vardaman's record was taken out and never replaced during the senate debate. For safekeeping he had it in his own desk.

—RED RECEPTION—

The Russian embassy trotted out Russia's second-best drawing card, Foreign Minister Molotov, for the annual reception celebrating the Soviet revolution. Even his presence, however, failed to disguise the deterioration of Russian-American relations.

Significant was not who came, but who stayed away. For the first time since 1940, the bulk of the cabinet was absent. So were most members of congress, even those still in Washington. The Russians knew the freeze was on. For the first time in five years, they roped off the third and fourth floors of the embassy, in previous years loaded down with choice viands, rare cuts of beef and free-flowing vodka. The crowd simply didn't show up. The acting secretary of state attended. So did the undersecretary of navy, so did fumbling Secretary of Treasury John Snyder, who loves a party no matter where it is. There were also a few brass hats, but the outpouring of top hats seen in former years failed to materialize.

Molotov's entire visit to Washington was a diplomatically correct, but cool performance. He was met at the station by Acting Secretary of State Acheson, visited the state department for ten minutes, and spent ten minutes at the White House—just long enough to say hello and pose for photographers.

One cabinet member who did show up at Molotov's party was Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman, ex-Ambassador to Moscow. Harriman recently was quoted as saying Russia and the U. S. couldn't live together, but he greeted Molotov in the back room of the embassy with a forced smile.

"I see you've gone religious, Vyacheslav," Harriman joked.

"How do you mean?" Molotov asked.

"Going to St. Patrick's Cathedral for Mass," Harriman explained.

"Oh," replied Molotov, "that wasn't I, that was Vishinsky."

Harriman then chatted briefly, assured Molotov the thumping GOP election triumph meant no change in American policy. Molotov did not appear convinced.

—GOERING HUMOR—

Just how big a last laugh Hermann Goering had on his executioners when he beat them to the hangman's noose is realized only by those who dealt with him during the Nuremberg trials.

During the trial, Goering frequently was handed documents to identify. When he returned these documents, he always removed the paper clips very carefully and then ceremoniously handed them to the interrogator.

"Here, you'd better keep these," he would say, "so they can't claim I'm saving material to commit suicide."

During one of the last interrogations of Hans Frank, Nazi governor general of Poland, Frank was offered a cigarette by his cross-examiner, who lit the cigarette for him with a lighter. Frank then asked the English word for lighter.

"You know," he added, "this is very interesting. I always like to learn a new word. One never knows if he won't have to use it in the next world."

Citation Awarded To Gen. Milton A. Hill

Milton A. Hill

By direction of President Truman, the Legion of Merit was awarded to Brigadier General Milton A. Hill, U. S. Army Retired by Colonel E. R. Crowell, Commanding Officer, Fort MacArthur, Calif., at an informal ceremony recently.

General Hill, the citation reads, displayed initiative, diplomacy, resourcefulness, and constant devotion to duty. He contributed materially to the successful prosecution of the war and the furtherance of cordial relations between the Governments of Chile and the United States.

An Inspector General on General MacArthur's staff in the Philippine Islands prior to the war, General Hill left Corregidor by submarine two days before "The Rock" surrendered. At the time he was ill with malaria.

Later he joined General Eisenhower in Africa and served as Inspector General of the Allied Forces and North African Theatre of Operations.

In 1943 he was detailed on the War Department General Staff and served as Secretary General of the Joint Brazil-United States Defense Commission.

In 1944, after the Brazilian Expeditionary force went overseas, he was sent to Santiago, Chile on duty with the U. S. Embassy as Military Attache. General Hill returned October 31, 1946.

Gen. Hill attended high school in Escanaba.

Flying Cowboys Spot
Cattle From The Air

Wellington, New Zealand—(AP)—Airplanes are helping to round up the cattle on two big ranches covering more than 60,000 acres of rough hill country in the South Island of New Zealand.

The ranches are being run by the Government Soil Conservation Council.

The aircraft are used to spot groups of cattle overlooked by men and dogs, and to direct horsemen to them. In one area thought to have been cleared, the planes found 18 head of cattle in five minutes.

Deer sometimes eat their shed antlers for their calcium content.

George F. Hallfrisch, 26, Is Traffic Victim; Driver Held In Jail

George F. Hallfrisch, 26, of 804 Ludington street, died at 8 a. m. Sunday in St. Francis hospital of a skull fracture received about 2 o'clock that morning when he was struck by a car while walking in the 1600 block, Ludington street.

Lloyd Baker, 27, of the Chemical Plant location, yesterday was held in jail awaiting arraignment today in justice court on a charge of involuntary manslaughter as the driver of the car that struck Hallfrisch.

Escanaba police yesterday said that Baker was arrested at 10:50 a. m. Sunday at his home, and later admitted he was driving the car that struck Hallfrisch. Shortly after the accident, police said, Baker described a "green car" as the one that crossed the center line of Ludington street, hit the left rear fender of a car driven by William Johnson of 503 South 14th street, struck down Hallfrisch and then drove away without stopping. In a statement to police after his arrest, police said, Baker admitted there was no "green car" involved and that it was his car which struck Johnson's car and fatally injured Hallfrisch. Baker had not left the accident scene before arrival of police.

Police reported that Hallfrisch's body was nine paces from the north curb of Ludington street. An ambulance was summoned to convey the injured man to the hospital, where he died six hours later.

At the time of the accident it was raining and snowing, police reported.

Hallfrisch was born June 22, 1920, at Cooks, and had lived in Escanaba for the past seven years except for the time he spent in military service with the U. S. Army. He enlisted in the Army in July, 1941, and was discharged in October, 1945.

He served in the 95th Infantry overseas for 14 months in France, Belgium and Germany under Gen. Patton. In recognition of his bravery in service he was awarded the Bronze Star. In Escanaba he has been employed by Coleman Nee.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Pearl Hallfrisch, and one brother, Henry, both of Escanaba.

The body was taken to the Alto funeral home where funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon with the Rev. James G. Ward officiating. The Escanaba post of the American Legion will be in charge of military rites at the service.

On-A-Bay Cabins
Sold To Flint Men

Announcement was made yesterday of the sale of the On-A-Bay cabins by Donald Waters to Ernest Conner and Carl Matthews of Flint, former employees of the Fisher Body company.

The tourist court consists of 17 cabins, a store and home. Mr. Waters purchased the property about a year ago from Ralph Layman.

The Mary's Lake resort, near Loreto, was also sold by Charles L. Juliana to Mr. and Mrs. Elza Hopkins of Flint. The property consists of six cottages, a store, boats and about five acres of water frontage. The sale price was $25,000.

Both real estate transactions were handled by the State-Wide Real Estate Service, of which Hugh Harris of Flint, formerly of Rapid River, is the general manager.

To Cook A Duck

How many times have you shied away from plucking that nice fat wild duck or maybe even a goose, after you had had the pleasure of knocking him out of the sky? Henry P. Davis, who beats the tom tom for the Remington Arms Company, offers the following suggestion for making the job easy:

"The most irksome chore about duck hunting is cleaning the game after the day's shoot is over. Tops in my book of tedious tasks is the plucking of the fine downy feathers from a wild duck without breaking the skin. But here's a tried-out wrinkle which will save much effort and which really works."

"Pluck the duck clean of all the larger feathers, leaving only the small downy ones. Then simply

Noelie DeRocher
Becomes Bride Of
Joseph A. Chenier

St. George's church of Bark River was the scene of a beautiful autumn wedding Saturday, October 26, when Miss Noelie DeRocher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. DeRocher, became the bride of Joseph A. Chenier, son of Mrs. Zenon Chenier and the late Zenon Chenier of Escanaba. The double-ring ceremony, which was performed by Father Neil Stehlin, took place at nine o'clock.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of Oriental silk fashioned with a high neckline, full skirt and a long princess bodice trimmed with lace. A finger-tip veil with a crown complimented the dress. She carried an all-white bouquet of chrysanthemums and pom poms.

Maid of honor was Miss Rita DeRocher, who wore a gown of gold nylon taffeta styled with a long scalloped bodice and sweetheart neckline. The bridesmaids, Miss Mae DeRocher and Mrs. Janet Martin, had gowns of aquamarine nylon taffeta styled identically to that of the maid of honor. Their bouquets consisted of bronze, yellow, and white mums and each wore matching floral headresses. Double-strand pearls were worn very effectively by all attendants. Clarence Martin was best man and Francis DeRocher served as usher.

The bride's mother appeared in a black and gold silk crepe dress and with it wore a corsage of gold and bronze mums. The groom's mother wore a black crepe frock complimented by a corsage of pink mums.

Music for the mass was sung by St. George's Choir accompanied by Mrs. Edwin Bergman, organist. Soloists were Earl T. Owen who sang Schubert's "Ave Maria" at the Offertory, and "On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother" at the close of the ceremony while the bride placed a bouquet of white mums before the statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

A wedding luncheon was served to forty-five guests at Belle's Coffee Shop and a six o'clock dinner was served at the Hotel Sherman.

An afternoon reception was held at the home of the bride with two hundred friends and relatives in attendance. Tall white tapers and a bouquet of pom poms and mums formed the centerpiece of the table.

Hosts were J. R. Nelson and Jack Morris and hostesses were Mesdames Sam Khoury, Jack Morris, Misses Lorayne Arkins and Eunice Derocher.

The bride has been employed by her father and is a graduate of Escanaba high school. The groom attended Escanaba Township schools and has been employed as an engineer at St. Francis hospital, following his discharge from the Army Air Corps in December, 1945.

Among out of town guests included Mrs. Sam Khoury, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morris, E. Dautre, Mr. and Mrs. O. LeClair, all of Iron Mountain.

Touching Up Lips
In Public Is Okay
BY ALICIA HART

Today's spirit of acceptance of lip-gilding is broad enough to take lip-rouging in a public restaurant after a girl has finished her meal.

By common accord and concerted action, the girls have conditioned their public to that one. Apparently it's because most women hate being seen with chewed-off color until that convenient time when they can withdraw and make the needed repairs.

But social acceptance does not extend to touch-ups with brush, lipstick, mirror and as many complicated maneuvers as an artist sets up when planning to paint a picture. Such make-up renais should be strictly a private affair. So should touch-ups made with a powder or rouge puff.

Nurses Meeting To Be Held Wednesday

A special meeting of the Tri-County Nurses association will be held at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in the offices of the Dickinson county health unit at Iron Mountain. Mrs. Elsie Anderson of Iron Mountain will report on a meeting of district presidents called for by the state organization. It is important that all nurses from Delta county attend the meeting if they possibly can.

Minocqua Men
Bridge Champs

BY L. W. OLSON

A pair of men, Ray Quady and Rollie Haff from Minocqua, Wis., who have attended every Escanaba Press held championship tournament held in Escanaba, ran off with the Upper Peninsula bridge pair Championship held over the week-end as the result of a very tight round in the finals Sunday.

At the end of the first session Dr. and Mrs. Carter, Peshtigo, Wis., were the leaders but couldn't quite hold off the final rush of the Minocqua pair.

This year's tournament proved to be one of the most popular and the most enjoyed we have ever held. The standings after Saturday nights play including the first fourteen pair were:

1. Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Carter (Peshtigo)—157

2. Mrs. Dr. Remington and Mrs. K. Trieber—147½

3. Mrs. A. Kraus and Mrs. J. Shiman—132

4-5. Mrs. W. Shepeck and Mrs. J. E. Byrnes—129½

4-5. Mr. and Mrs. H. Needham—129½

6. Mrs. E. A. Christie and Mrs. R. Louis—128½

7. Mr. and Mrs. R. Smith (Marinette)—128

8. Mrs. J. A. Lemmer and Mrs. W. Schuldes—125½

9. C. Buckbee Sr. and C. Buckbee Jr.—125

10. E. Kremer and J. Ferguson—122

11. Mrs. E. Martinson and Mrs. M. Saums—119

12. Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Bowe—117½

13. Mrs. J. L. Temby and Mrs. L. W. Olson—116

14. R. Quady and R. Haff (Minocqua)—113½

Sunday afternoon results found the following fourteen pair finishing in this order:

1. R. Quady and R. Haff (Minocqua)—162½

2-3. Mrs. J. Temby and Mrs. L. W. Olson—133

2-3. Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Howe—133

4. Mr. and Mrs. R. Smith (Marinette)—132

5. Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Haal (Peshtigo)—130

6. C. Buckbee Sr. and C. Buckbee Jr.—128

7. Mr. and Mrs. J. Stang (Menominee)—127½

8. Mrs. W. Shepeck and Mrs. J. E. Byrnes—125½

WHY

A SOAP SHORTAGE?

You've Heard Rumors. Here Are the Facts!

1. There is a world-wide shortage of animal fats and of vegetable oils. This shortage affects all of us. For instance, this year soapmakers have been able to obtain only one fifth of the imported oils they used in 1941—far less domestic fats, too.
2. Because of the world-wide shortage, manufacturers are unable to get the amount of fats and oils they need to make not only soaps, but also paints, textiles, tires, leather goods, floor coverings, electrical appliances, etc.
3. In the face of these conditions, American soap manufacturers have done their utmost. They have turned all the fats and oils they have been able to obtain into soap just as quickly as possible.
4. But for the help of American housewives, the shortage of soap would have been far more serious. Last year, more than one out of every nine packages of soap sold was made from used fats saved in America's kitchens.
5. Don't blame your grocer. He is doing his best, like the soapmakers, to get more soap for you. Won't you do your best by saving and turning in every drop of used fats.

NORWAY BUILDS HER SHIPPING

Merchant Marine Plans To Take Old Place In Commerce

Washington, D. C.—Norway's merchant fleet, for which new units have been ordered at a cost of more than $340,000,000, plays a vital role in the nation's economy and in world shipping as well.

Before it was overruled by the Nazis in 1940, Norway ranked fourth among the world's leading merchant shippers, notes the National Geographic Society. Although topped in total tonnage by British, American, and Japanese ships, the Norwegian fleet led the field in proportion to the country's population.

Each of Norway's nearly three million inhabitants was represented by a little more than one and a half gross tons of shipping, compared with less than one-tenth of a ton for each person in the United States.

Helped Allies Win

Norwegian ships ply far sea lanes. Before the war, less than 10 per cent of the total tonnage was used in coastal traffic. The rest was accounted for by whaling boats, by vessels carrying Norway's foreign trade, and, most important, by ships handling a vast and profitable "sea-delivery service." Panama Canal records show more than 700 Norwegian entries for 1939.

When the Nazis invaded, more than a thousand ships of Norway's merchant marine were safely out of reach. Every skipper followed his government's orders to report to British or Allied ports.

In the crucial Battle of Britain, these ships brought half of England's oil and gasoline supplies, a third of its food and battle needs. They served in the evacuation of Dunkirk and Crete, and in the armada that in November, 1942, opened the North African campaign.

After the European war was won, Norwegian bottoms helped transport war materials to the Orient for the final effort before VJ Day.

Geography Makes Sailors

Behind the story of Norway's seagoing bent lie the influencing factors of geography. With an area only a little larger than that of New Mexico, this country has a jagged, fjord-cut coastline of more than 12,000 miles.

Most of its people live on or near the coast. A northern climate and mountain-crumpled surface discourages large-scale farming.

Norway's seafaring warriors and explorers have made history from the time of the Vikings. The development and expansion of the merchant marine, however, came only after the 18th century.

During World War I, neutral Norway's extensive fleet paid heavily for keeping afloat. Nearly half of it was lost, the largest proportion for any country, neutral or belligerent.

Once more, in the late war, close to half of Norway's tonnage was destroyed, making replacement a foremost item on the nation's recovery agenda.

CANADA'S CHIEF BREWER

The province of Quebec is the chief center of the brewing industry in the Dominion of Canada. In 1934, for instance, it produced 22,349,000 gallons of beer, or more than 48 per cent of the total output of the country.

Jobs Retailed Like Other Commodities On New York Market

By GEORGE TUCKER

New York—(AP)—Job merchants are selling jobs to a million New Yorkers annually for 10 percent of their first month's wages.

This fee, authorized by law, ought to insure a lucrative field. Two factors, however, hold down the rewards, agents complain.

One is the competition. There are 824 licensed employment agencies in New York City.

Another is the paucity of job buyers. Unlike soap and lard, jobs constitute a commodity where the supply has caught up with the demand.

"We have to round up dishwashers off park benches," one agent representing a chain of cafeterias said. "And the turnover is terrific. They work for a day, get a few bucks, and head for a gin mill."

A larger job seller who caters to industrial workers said there was seldom trouble with carpenters or workers who carry heavy boxes of tools with them.

"When they report on a job, they stick. They are serious citizens and want to work," he explained.

Before the war, Sixth Avenue between 42nd street and 59th street was alive with little employment agencies, mostly with unswept floors and dirty windows.

To the immense relief of the Sixth Avenue association they pulled out after Pearl Harbor, migrating to a new employment center at 80 Warren street. Between 45 and 50 agencies are in one building. Larger agencies on the outside frown on their presence.

"A lot of them are chiselers, interested in a quick dollar. They don't care whether the jobs satisfy or not," one agency manager said.

A delegation of fishermen, led by Claude Ver Duin of Grand Haven, representing the State Commercial Fishermen's Association, asked the commission for relief from a 1945 law setting the mesh size at two and three-eighths inch.

The Upper Peninsula fishermen said the law, resulting in confiscation of their nets, had worked a serious hardship on them. Previously, the smaller mesh was permitted for under ice fishing, and the larger for open water commercial fishing. H. R. Sayre, chief of the Field Administration Division, said the department had favored the 1945 bill to eliminate enforcement difficulties, but was willing to change.

The commission agreed to turn over Island House hotel property at Mackinac Island to the Mackinac Island State Park Commission, climaxing several months of negotiations. The conservation commission acquired the property in default of taxes many years ago.

The application, like four others rejected last week, was recommended by the National Housing administration. NHA officials have said that unless RFC considered, National Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt would issue directives requiring that the loans be made.

It is understood that these directives are now being held up until Wyatt confers further with RFC officials.

Rapid River

Nelsen-Jensen

Rapid River.—The marriage of Miss Joyce Anita Nelson to Wayne Jensen was solemnized Saturday evening, Nov. 2, at a candlelight service in the First English Evangelical Lutheran church of South Haven. The Rev. William Eckert, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony at 8 o'clock, before the altar with its setting of white tapers in tall floor candleabra and baskets of varicolored chrysanthemums.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nelson, 1058 South Michigan avenue, South Haven, formerly of Rapid River. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jorden Jensen, Benton Harbor.

The bride entered on the arm of her father to the strains of the traditional wedding march played by the church organist. Preceding the ceremony, Joseph Duchal of Chicago, an uncle of the bride sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride wore a full length gown of net over white satin. The basque bodice was fashioned with a round neckline and short sleeves. She wore white silk gloves extending above the elbow and her fingertip veil was attached to a beaded tiara. Her jewelry was a single strand of pearls which were a gift from the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of gardenias with white satin streamers.

The maid of honor was the bride's cousin, Miss Maurine Christiansen, of Chicago. She was dressed in a pale pink taffeta gown with matching net veil and gloves. The bridesmaid was Miss Delores Baker of South Haven. She wore a full length pale blue taffeta gown with matching veil and gloves. Both carried colonial bouquets of yellow mums and had matching flowers in their hair.

Arthur Crossman served as best man. Ushers were Walter Jensen, a brother of the bridegroom and John Wickstrom, an uncle of the bride.

Mrs. Nelson, chose a brown wool suit for her daughter's wedding. Her accessories were of brown with a yellow rose-bud corsage. The bridegroom's mother chose a black crepe dress, complemented by a corsage of red roses and accessories of black.

A reception for 100 guests was held at the church parlors immediately following the wedding rites. Refreshments were served from a buffet table adorned with a three tiered cake that was cut by the newlyweds and was served by the ladies aid society. Friends were received at the home of the bride's parents, after which Mr. and Mrs. Jensen left on a wedding trip to Wisconsin and Northern Michigan. For her going away outfit, the bride wore a blue wool gabardine suit with black accessories and a gardenia corsage.

Out of town guests at the reception were the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Jensen, his brothers, Walter and Herbert of Benton Harbor; the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Emma Nelson, Masonville; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Nelson, Gunnar Nelson, Mrs. Curtis Christiansen, Rapid River; Mrs. Albin Nelson, Escanaba, Mr. and Mrs. Duchal, Mrs. George Duchal, and John Wickstrom of Chicago.

Mrs. Nelson attended South Haven high school and was employed at the Tri-County Telephone company. The bridegroom was in the army for three years and 9 months. He is now employed at the Producers creamery in Benton Harbor. The young couple will make their home in Benton Harbor.

UNIQUE LOCATION

Attu, westernmost island of the Aleutian chain, is the farthest west of all United States possessions. Technically, it is in the western hemisphere, but international law bent the international dateline to the west of the island, so that it would have the same time schedule as the rest of the chain.

U.N. Rejects Idea Of Its Own International Army

By BURTON HEATH

New York (NEA)—The United Nations has rejected any idea of having its own international army made up of troops and material provided by member nations.

If the Security Council should ever decide upon the use of force against a nation that was disturbing world peace, it will call upon troops, weapons and services supplied by member nations on specific request.

Ranking military experts scoff at the idea of an international United Nations army of soldiers giving allegiance to the world organization ahead of their native countries. They say it never would work.

"There is a difference between professional soldiers and mercenary soldiers," one military expert pointed out. "Anybody who devotes himself to his country's army, navy or air force is a professional soldier, but when he goes into battle he is motivated by patriotism. The mercenary soldier, fighting for whomever buys his services, never has been any good as a class. When a showdown comes he lacks that vital spark that pulls victory out of defeat."

"Obviously, with differences in language, training, strategy and tactics, it would be inefficient to put men of many nationalities into one company in such an army. So what would you do? Have a company of Americans or Britons, a company of Russians and one of Chinese side by side? Who would command them? How do you think they would work together?"

"Work up the line, and eventually you get national troops grouped into major units. Bring them to the United States. How effectively do you think the American unit would fight against our own army? Or take them to Russia, and how much use do you think the Soviet unit would be against their motherland?"

Air Force Mentioned

Admiral Richmond Kelly Turner, amphibious hero of the war in the Pacific, now ranking member of the U. S. delegation in the United Nations Military Staff Committee, speaking as an individual, said:

"So far as I know there is no proposal for an international armed force and such an organization never has been suggested officially in connection with the United Nations."

"The idea has come up twice in the past. At the general disarmament conference (in Geneva) in 1932, the French proposed an international police force to be stationed in eastern Europe. The proposal never received serious attention."

Actually what the French wanted was an army, made up largely of French troops but paid by the League of Nations, stationed in Germany.

"During early discussions that led to the United Nations charter, the Soviet Union mentioned the idea of an international air force under international command. But she made no specific proposal, no other nation accepted the suggestion, and it was not adopted."

FLU VACCINE IS EFFECTIVE

Protects About 60 Per Cent Of Those Vaccinated

Pittsburgh—The new vaccine against influenza A and B protects about 60 per cent of those vaccinated. In event of an epidemic it might reduce absenteeism from 500 man-days to 200 per 1,000 employees. It would reduce overall yearly rate of absenteeism from all respiratory diseases such as colds, tonsillitis, grippe and influenza by only 6 per cent.

These figures were presented by Dr. Anna M. Baetjer, of Johns Hopkins University, at the meeting here this afternoon of the Industrial Hygiene Foundation.

The common cold, she reported, accounts for one-fourth the annual billion-dollar loss due to respiratory diseases. There has been no reduction in absenteeism from this cause in the past 30 years.

"A study of past epidemics suggests that an epidemic of influenza A may possibly occur this winter but it is not certain whether such an epidemic would be general throughout great areas or would affect only certain local regions," Dr. Baetjer said.

"Industrial vaccination should not be started until there is some evidence of either influenza A or B in the community or neighboring areas. Such warnings may be expected from public health authorities or certain influenza research laboratories in various parts of the country. Persons sensitive to eggs should not be vaccinated since serious allergic reactions and even death may occur."

Escanaba Airport Site Must Be Decided Soon

Whether Escanaba will improve its present airport to meet Civil Aeronautics Administration requirements and give commercial airlines a field which large planes can safely use, or whether it will choose to construct a new airport on a site which the city hopes to obtain from the government is a decision expected to be made soon.

The need for an immediate decision has become increasingly evident in the past few weeks, according to those who hope the community will not delay too long and miss an opportunity to become an important airway crossroads for the Upper Peninsula.

Among the factors which call for a decision in selecting a permanent airport site are these recent developments:

1—Announcement by the Michigan aeronautics board that Escanaba is one of several airports which are to be improved with part of one million dollars in funds appropriated by the state legislature, and now free to be legally spent following passage of a constitutional amendment. The Escanaba airport improvement project is one of 39 submitted to the CAA for approval by the state.

2—A recommendation by the aeronautics board of examiners that the Duluth Airlines be granted a certificate of convenience and necessity for a period of three years, under which it would establish an airline route with Escanaba as a stop. Duluth Airlines plans passenger service using Douglas DC-3's and Lockheed Lodestars.

3—Submission by the city of Escanaba of an application to the state aeronautics board for a part or all of a $9,872 grant by the state to aid in airport improvements. It is understood that the city by contributing two-thirds of a like amount would have the total matched by the federal government.

Military Rites—All Legionnaires are requested to gather at the Al-funeral home at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon to attend the funeral services for George Hallfrisch, Commander Bob Lemire of the Legion urges that members attend in uniform.

Lions Entertained By Boys' Octette

The Escanaba high school boys' octette, directed by Jessie Wick, high school music instructor, presented an entertaining program at the regular meeting of the Escanaba Lions club last evening at the Sherman hotel.

Members of the group are Wendell Buckland, Ronald Johnson, Robert Huckenpahl, Eric Hammar, Lloyd Servant, John Wats, Harold Sundelius and Merle Nelson. Mary Pat Anderson is the accompanist.

The octette presented three numbers, "Swing With the Fringe on Top," "Who Did?" and "Climb Up, Chillian, Climb."

Red Buck District Officers To Meet

The newly elected officers of Red Buck District will hold their first meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight, Nov. 12, in the city hall in Escanaba, it is announced by the new district chairman, James H. Jackson.

The meeting will consist of the formation of personnel of the seven operating committees of the district: organization and extension, camping and activities, advancement, finance, health and safety, leadership training, and the commissioner staff. Chairmen of the committees will be present to formulate such groups.

Researchers Given Grants To Promote War Against Cancer

Four noted researchers have been awarded grants by the American Cancer Society to carry on work at the University of Michigan and Detroit Harper Hospital to curb and eventually stamp out cancer, it was announced Monday.

November 11, by Leslie B. Butler, president of the Michigan Division of the American Cancer Society.

They are Dr. Robert Nisbet, Dr. Robley C. Williams and Dr. Fred J. Hodges, University of Michigan, and Dr. Lawrence Reynolds, Harper Hospital, Detroit.

The grants are an initial result of a nation-wide drive held last spring to subscribe funds for a total war on cancer, the society said.

Basis of the research at the University and in Detroit is a study of the effect of electronic and radioactive properties on malignant growths, according to a cancer society bulletin.

A national survey conducted by the group revealed that cancer is the second ranking cause of the annual death toll, following closely behind heart disease.

In this area, one out of every eight deaths is caused by cancer.

The "vicious killer" will enter one home out of every two, according to cancer society figures.

Enthusiastic financial response of the public already is beginning to bear fruit in the local battle to wipe out cancer, the society said.

Closely allied with the national society's educational program is a local year-round program financed by 50 per cent of the funds which were raised here last spring.

C. T. MARIN PASSES AWAY

Former Dray Operator Had Been Invalid For Many Years

Charles T. Marin, 57, lifelong resident of Manistique, died at the Oakland county convalescent hospital at Pontiac following an invalidism of many years standing. He and Mrs. Marin had moved to Pontiac last summer to be near their children and it was in that city that the end came last Sunday evening.

Mr. Marin was born in Manistique on June 12, 1889 and attended school in this city. As a young man he worked in the saw mills, was later delivery man for the Middlebrook Grocery and then operated a dray line of his own. It was while employed in routine work that he was injured, his ailments gradually causing helplessness. For years, for daily exercise, he rode about on a specially made tricycle, a pursuit which made him a familiar figure in the city. He was for years a member of Zion Lutheran church.

Surviving him are his widow, a daughter, Mrs. Arthur Kirkin, of Pontiac; three step-children, William Orville White and Mrs. Alta Gossie, Pontiac, and Mrs. William McMorris, of Sault Ste. Marie; nine brothers, Ivan, Grand Haven; Knut, Sault Ste. Marie; Henry, Pasadena, Calif.; Axel, Ann Arbor; Fred, Lansing; William, Cheboygan; Nels, Lansing; Gust, Minneapolis, and George of Birmingham, Mich.

The body will arrive here Tuesday and will be taken to the Morton Funeral Home where funeral services will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The Rev. G. A. Herbert will officiate and burial will be at Lakeview cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. George Schweikert, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. LeDuc, Mr. and Mrs. George Morton, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Creighton, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Creeger, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Venhaus and son, Jerry, are expected to arrive here Wednesday from Milwaukee, to spend a few days at the J. J. Hruska home.

Mrs. H. O. Hanson of Green Bay, and Mrs. Edgar Wood and Mrs. Gustave Hahn, of Manistique spent the past week in Sault Ste. Marie visiting with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Crawford and Mr. and Mrs. Vern Smith spent the week end in Manitowish visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cockram, former residents of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hokenson of Blaney are the parents of a son, Gary Alan, born Friday, November 8, at the Shaw hospital. Mrs. Hokenson is the former Doris Van Orman.

DEER HUNTERS FAVOR AREA

Records Show Local Hunting Grounds Brought Results

Schoolcraft county was third among counties of the Upper Peninsula in the number of hunters operating in its borders in the 1945 season according to data printed by the Michigan Department of Conservation.

According to the figures 6,607 hunters sought their game in this county and killed 2,566 deer. Leading Schoolcraft county in this matter were Chippewa county with 6,615 hunters and 2,400 deer killed; and Iron county with 6,622 hunters and 3,380 deer taken. Iron county led in the number of deer killed, 51 per cent of the hunters being successful.

This information comes from the report cards turned in by the hunters.

Roscommon county, in the Lower Peninsula, was the banner county for number of hunters, 18,646,

Andy Smith's Sons Of Football Fame Reunited In Death

Flint, Mich., Nov. 11 (AP)—The football playing sons of Col. Andrew W. (Andy) Smith, himself a famous University of Michigan griddier, were reunited in death today.

Col. Smith is famed in Wolverine lore as the man Fielding H. Yost made into a center on the team ride from Michigan to Pennsylvania 1909. His sons were Bob, not quite good enough to get a letter in 1940, and Bill, a fine tackle in 1936-38-39.

Bob was a captain in the air forces and flew hundreds of combat hours in the Pacific, only to be killed in a training accident in 1943 after he came home.

Bill became a major in the air forces, winning three silver stars, four Distinguished Flying Crosses and two air medals, then he came home and decided to stay in the Army.

Word was received here Monday that Bill had been killed, too, in a plane accident shortly after reverting to his permanent rank of first lieutenant. He had been stationed at Fort Worth, according to word received by Flint relatives. Funeral arrangements are awaiting arrival of Bill's father.

Bill left two sons, Andrew William II, 2 years old, and Raymond a few months old.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

The Green Bay Packer fans are picking an all-time Packer team that will be presented between halves of the Packer-Cardinal game at Green Bay Sunday, Nov. 24. The poll will end Nov. 16. Leading the race to date are Don Hutson and Lavvie Dilweg, ends; Cal Hubbard and Ernie Smith, tackles; Mike Michalske and Buckets Goldenberg, guards; Charley Brock, center; Red Dunn, quarterback; Verne Lewellen and Johnny Blood, halfbacks; and Clarke Hinkle, fullback. The largest number of votes for any candidate to date is 53 for Mike Michalske, tackle, followed by 51 for Cal Hubbard at guard and 48 for Don Hutson at end.

Basketball fans will see a new wrinkle this season. In the last four minutes of the game, the clock will stop each time the ball becomes dead, such as out of bounds, jump ball, etc. The purpose of the rules change is to eliminate any stalling in this critical part of the game, particularly by a team that does not actually have the ball in play. It puts a new responsibility on the timer, but should encourage schools to install automatic timeclocks so that the timers can do their job more efficiently without the necessity of watching for expiration of the period.

One of the most popular spots for Escanaba's small fry next winter will be the new recreation center established in the fairgrounds exhibition building. It will also prove very popular with the older group. The center houses the indoor ice rink, as usual, a snack bar, plus facilities for ping pong, boxing, archery, ring toss, indoor horseshoe pitching. A series of exhibition boxing matches, for free, will be presented during the season. The center officially opened yesterday but a group of approximately 50 youngsters have been visiting the place nightly for the past couple weeks.

CITY LEAGUE SEEKS PLAYERS

Basketball Circuit Has Room For Additional Candidates

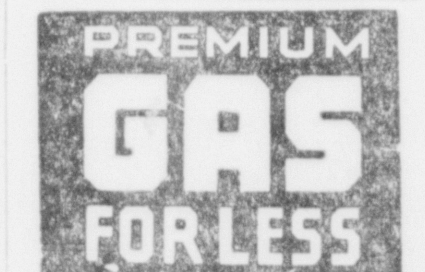

Two teams in the city recreation league are looking for basketball players. There are still former high school and college players that are not on teams and if they intend to play, are requested to report for practice tonight at the Junior High gym. Ray Bennett of O'berg's and Bern O'Donnell of Mike's Bar want a few more. The competition in the league will be keen this year and all teams are recruiting the best talent available. Practice sessions on Tuesday and Thursday have been well attended and the scrimmages have brought out some surprises that makes every manager looking for a full lineup.

In the last few years the league has been dominated by one or two teams but this year it is a toss up between four and maybe five quintets. Many veterans have returned and with the entry of Gladstone showing a fast outfit, the local fans are sure of seeing some fine brands of basketball.

A new feature of the league this year will be the selection of an all-star team to play traveling attractions at least three times this year. This team will be picked by the fans at the local league games and the managers of teams. This is to assure the spectators of the best available talent as opposition to some of the outstanding teams in the county. Bookings are now in progress and an announcement will be given soon on one of the special events of the schedule. Watch for it.

This week's schedule of practice games will be as follows:

Tuesday: 7:00-8:00 VFW and St. Ann C. Y. O.
8:00-9:00 Swifts and Mike's Bar.
9:00-10:00 O'berg's and Gladstone.
Thursday: 7:00-8:00 Harris and Bark River Lions.
8:00-10:00 All teams that are not listed.

Tularemia, the bugaboo of rabbit hunters, is back again. Two cases have already been reported in the state this fall and the conservation department is issuing its annual warning. Streptomycin, the new wonder drug, is an effective cure for the disease but the stuff is costly and the supply is extremely limited. It will be available only for serious cases. The best bet is to discard any sickly looking rabbits and to wear rubber gloves when cleaning rabbits. They should be thoroughly cooked so no pink or rare portions remain, even next to the bones. First of all, of course, you have to find the rabbits which some hunters say is quite a chore in itself.

Hit and Miss—Edward Doucette, principal of the Quinnessee school and assistant coach at Kingsford, has been appointed principal and head coach at Vulcan. He succeeds Fred Morin, who resigned to take an insurance job. Rumor has it that Dutch Cummings, former Kingsford coach, now at New London, will soon be back at Kingsford. . . . Norway, Class C Upper Peninsula basketball champ last season, will have a powerhouse again this season. Six lettermen, including three regulars from last season.

Spartans Hopeful For 50-50 Season; Marquette U. Next

East Lansing, Nov. 11 (AP)—Still holding hopes that they can finish the current football season with a 50-50 record, the Michigan State College Spartans today set their sights on Saturday's contest here with Marquette.

Head coach Charley Bachman cancelled practice for the entire squad Monday to give the players and coaches a rest. They will resume operations Tuesday.

State and Marquette will be rated on a par with each other as far as past records are concerned when they take the field Saturday before the Spartans' homecoming crowd. State fell to Kentucky 10 days ago, 39-14, and Marquette lost to Kentucky last week 35-7. The Hilltoppers and Spartans battled to a 13-13 tie last year. State has won eight and Marquette six in previous contests of the series.

CUBS LEAVE FEB. 18

Chicago, Nov. 11 (AP)—The first Chicago Cub squad—made up mainly of battery men—will leave for spring training on Catalina Island Feb. 18, General Manager Jim Gallagher said today. The main squad will report to manager Charley Grimm at the island camp around March 1.

GOPHER COACH MAY TURN PRO

Grapevine Says Bierman May Take Helm Of Chicago Rockets

Chicago, Nov. 11 (AP)—Bernie Bierman, once called the "Gray Fox" when his Minnesota Juggernauts plowed through five undefeated seasons, has come upon hard days—when prompting rumors he may quit the now bedraggled Gophers and join professional ranks.

Minnesota Athletic Director Frank McCormick today acknowledged those rumors when he told the Herald-American Quarterback club that Bierman has not discussed his 1947 plans, but is welcome to remain at Minnesota as long as he wishes.

One branch of the grapevine has it Bierman may take the helm of the Chicago Rockets of the All-America Conference whose coaching difficulties this season caused more stir than their record.

"I can't answer the question of whether Bernie will move into the professional field," McCormick said. "Only Bierman himself can answer that."

"We're so busy trying to win a game here and there this season, we haven't talked over next season's plans. But Bernie holds a full professorship and can stay at Minnesota as long as he wishes."

Minnesota conference football fortunes struck bottom with nine straight defeats spanning 1945 and the current season, a woeful contrast to the sensational play of the Golden Gophers before the war.

Bierman's teams of 1933, '34, '35, '40 and '41 were undefeated and the 21-game win string of his 1933-34-35 seasons only has been topped by Army's war-nurtured 25-game streak. When Bernie took leave in 1941 to rejoin the Marines, the Gophers had just completed a chain of 17 straight games without defeat.

Acting Coach George Hauser struggled with war-hit squads from 1942 through 1944 for a three-season record of 15 wins, 11 defeats and a tie. Gopher hopes ran high after Bierman returned last season and Minnesota won its first four games. Then the roof fell in with five straight Big Nine defeats and the debris continued to drop around Bierman's head this season.

The Gophers lost to Indiana, Northwestern, Ohio State and Michigan before their league defeat string was snapped at nine with a 13-7 win over Purdue last Saturday.

RUMORS UNFOUNDED

Minneapolis, Nov. 11 (AP)—Bernie Bierman, head football coach at Minnesota, today said he knew nothing of rumors that he would become coach of the Chicago Rockets of the All-America Conference or any other professional team.

"I know nothing of these reports," Bierman said. "I don't know where they come from."

Cheering Students Welcome The Irish

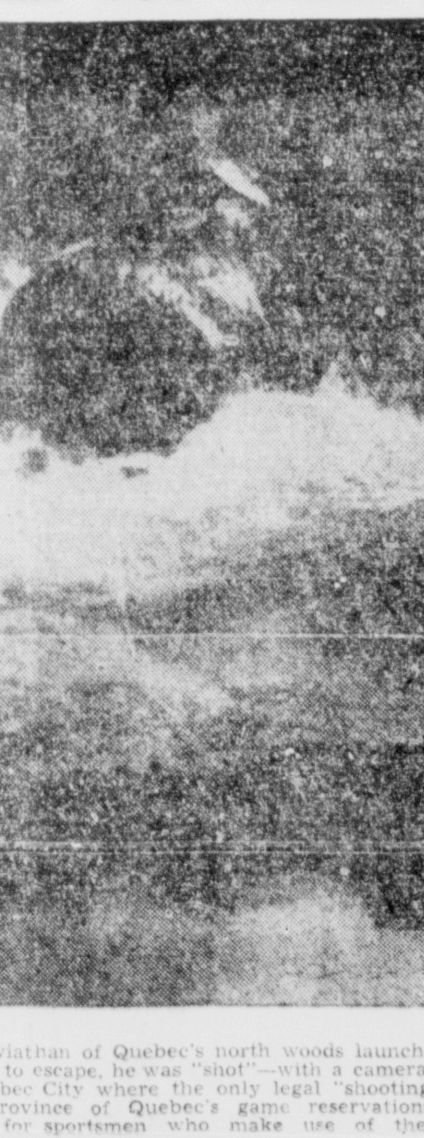

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 11 (AP)—Notre Dame's footballers were welcomed home by 500 cheering students today and almost had to "replay" their scoreless tie with Army at New York under a barrage of queries from the stay-at-homes. Coach Frank Leahy gave the somewhat battered Irish the day off from practice.

Chief casualties were center George Strohmeier, who suffered recurrence of an ankle injury, and end Jim Martin, who has bruised ribs and may not see action in Saturday's game here against Northwestern.

Both Strohmeier and halfback Floyd Simmons, who missed the Army battle because of a ruptured blood vessel in his right leg, will be in shape for the Wildcat invasion, trainer Hugh Burns reported.

Penn Crew Tops Irish For Speed, Says Army Coach

BY HAROLD CLAASSEN

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—Glenn Davis was badly shaken up in the Notre Dame game but received no injuries and Pennsylvania has more overall speed than the Irish. Maj. Paul Amen of the Army coaching staff told New York football writers today.

"Stu Holcombe, our end coach, saw Notre Dame and the Quakers against Navy and he reports that the Quakers, whom we meet Saturday at Philadelphia, have much more speed, especially in the backfield," Amen continued.

He added that Davis, candidate for a third berth on the All-America team, was a bit worn in the Notre Dame fray but would be in shape for Pennsylvania, a team the cadets defeated by a 61 to 0 score a year ago.

Amen's report underscored an earlier statement by Lou Little, coach of the Columbia Lions who lost to Pennsylvania by a 41 to 6 count last Saturday.

"I won't say that Penn will beat Army but I will say that Penn has the ability and the talent to do it," Little declared, explaining that if "Penn gets off on the right foot at the start Army will have all that it can handle."

Penn, currently No. 5 on the AP's weekly poll, has a potent forward wall and a horde of competent backs, George Savitsky, 250 pound tackle, Joe Dickerson, three-year regular at guard, and Charles Bednarik, ex-aerial runner at center, form the heart of the line.

Probably the most widely known of the Quaker ball-carriers is Tony Minisi, southpaw passer who spent last season at the naval academy but returned to Pennsylvania this fall.

The Quakers have won all their games except for the season's biggest upset, a 17 to 14 loss to Princeton two Saturdays ago.

TROJANS OPEN CAGE PRACTICE

Three Veterans Return; Prospects Bright For St. Joseph

St. Joseph high school basketball squad opened practice sessions last week under the direction of Coach Fred Boddy, with three first string lettermen reporting in a squad of 34 candidates.

After two days practice the squad was cut to 12 men on the varsity and 14 on the reserve list.

The Trojans will open their schedule on Nov. 30 with their annual battle with the Eskymos, to be followed by another toughie with Gladstone providing the opposition. The St. Joseph-Escanaba game will be played at the Bonifas gymnasium this year.

Coach Boddy expects to have a better defensive team this year but will be satisfied if this year's outfit scores as well as the 1945-46 team. Last year the Trojans set a new scoring record for a St. Joseph team, 511 points, but lost five of their games by less than three points. Opponents scored 609 points.

Don Lewis, Carl Fassbender and Charles Hirm are the returning veterans whom Boddy expects will carry the heavy load this season. Last year's reserves moved up to the varsity squad include Hendricksen, Murphy, Courneen, Ed McCarthy, Stropich, Douglas, Milron, Harris and Menard.

The complete St. Joseph schedule will be announced by Father Francis, athletic director, as soon as all of the contracts are returned.

CARDS BEATEN BY BAYS, 19-7

Packers Win Battle Of Fumbles At Comiskey Park

Chicago, Ill.—Curley Lambeau's Green Bay Packers, snapping back after their bitter 10-7 licking at the hands of the Bears a week ago, upset the Chicago Cardinals in a weird game of fumbles before 23,000 fans at Comiskey park Sunday afternoon, 19-7.

Maybe it was the condition of the ball, maybe just plain jitter, but whatever it was, this old field has seldom seen such loose ball handling as it saw on this day—and only some of it shows up in the statistics. Count was lost of the passes that were dropped and that should have been caught or intercepted.

The Packers led all the way. They put the scoremarker to work in the first quarter when Ted Fritsch booted a 30 yard field goal, and ran their lead to 17-0 before their stubborn defense, now one of the best in the league, yielded Chicago its consolation touchdown. To the field goal, Fritsch and Comp each added a touchdown in the second quarter, and Baby Ray and Larry Craig a safety in the closing seconds by nouncing on Christmas with the ball in the end zone.

Chicago got its only points early in the third period, driving 67 yards on the first four plays from scrimmage. A pass, Christmas to Seno, brought the ball home. Fritsch added each of Green Bay's extra points, and Cuff the point after Chicago's tally.

Cards' Rushes Are Held
The statistics tell what a game it was. So good was Green Bay's line play that the Cardinals got only one first down rushing and a meager total of 16 yards—and this by one of the most potent offensive teams in the league. The Packers meanwhile got 218 yards on the ground.

It was in the air, with Christmas and Mallow operating at quarterback in the T, that the Cardinals did their only real damage. Despite the condition of the field and the ball they went into the air no fewer than 31 times and completed 11, for 237 yards although if they could have held the ball, they would have certainly had a better average. Pass after pass was dropped. Green Bay, still showing what is probably the club's greatest weakness this season, completed only three out of 11 for 50 yards.

And the fumbles! Only 11 of them show up in the statistics, six by the Cardinals and five by the Packers, but they vitally affected the tide of the game. Green Bay fell on five of Chicago's and the Cardinals on three of Green Bay's.

The victory, which enabled Curly Lambeau to maintain his unbroken coaching superiority over Jimmy Conzelman extending back to 1921, lifted the Packers above 500 per cent again. They now have four victories and three defeats. They will meet the Lions at Detroit next Sunday, then play the Cardinals a return game in Green Bay.

Ram-Bear Football Game Sets Record

Los Angeles, Nov. 11 (AP)—General Manager Chile Walsh of the Los Angeles Rams said today yesterday's Ram-Chicago Bear game set a record for gross gate receipts for regular National Professional football league games.

The contest grossed $175,816. The previous high was approximately $136,000, Walsh estimated. Paid admissions totaled 68,381. Walsh said this was the second highest attendance at a regular league game, the high mark of 73,650 having witnessed the New York Giant-Chicago Bear game at the Polo Grounds when Red Grange made his eastern debut in 1926. Chicago won yesterday's game, 27-21.

Pastors Push Drive On Vice Centers In Steubenville, Ohio

Steubenville, O., (AP)—Steubenville's pastors will press their demands for the right form a "sledge hammer and pistol" patrol to "smash vice centers." Dr. Norman E. Nygaard declared after disclosing receipt of an anonymous telephone call warning him to "lay off" his campaign to clean up the city.

The minister said his four-year-old daughter, Cynthia, answered a telephone in her bedroom at 2:30 a. m. and listened to the caller until he took the receiver and heard a man's husky voice utter the words:

"Will your father he'd better lay off before it's too late."

Dr. Nygaard said he had not reported the incident to local police but asserted that there would be no letup in the pastors' campaign.

He said the group would appeal to Gov. Frank J. Lausche for an investigation of conditions in this Ohio River City of 40,000.

EXPERTS KEEP CADETS ON TOP

Grid Poll Gives Lead To Army Over Notre Dame In Photo Finish

BY SID FEDER
New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—The nation's sports writers had just as much trouble today deciding whether Army or Notre Dame was the best team in the country as the Cadets and Irish had in finding out themselves last Saturday—and when the shooting stopped, the "experts" gave it to Army in the closest kind of photo finish.

Forced to split out the two mightiest moleskin machines in collegiate gridding after their scoreless thriller of last week end, the writers apparently went on the old sports theory that "a champ is a champ until he's beaten." As a result, they voted the Army in front by exactly 34 points, what was probably as hot a battle of ballots as the weekly Associated Press poll has ever come up with in all its years.

Altogether, 143 sports writers from coast to coast—and the Stars and Stripes sports editor in Germany for good measure—went to the ballot box with their selections for the top ten teams in the nation. Of these, Army drew 57 undisputed first-place votes to 31 for the Fighting Irish, who put the first mark in three years on the Cadets' careening three-year-long perfect record last Saturday. And, hitting a new high for the poll, 36 writers voted for a first-place deadlock between the two teams, unable to see it one way or the other.

Basing the count on the usual system of 10 points for a first-place ballot, 9 for a second, 8 for a third, etc., Army finished with its narrow edge of 1,300 1/2 points to 1,266 1/2 for Notre-Dame. The rest of the field was far out of it, although Georgia's unbeaten untied Bulldogs, coming fast in the stretch, showed even more power than a week ago in holding onto the third spot in the ranking.

The 19 first place votes the Cadets and Irish didn't get were tossed to the country's only major undefeated, untied outfit—Georgia and the University of California at Los Angeles. The Bulldogs picked up 12 of them, half a dozen more than they had last week, and the Pacific Coast Conference pace-setters collected seven, four more than their top-spot vote of a week ago.

Drawing "mentions" on the ballots all the way from first to tenth place, the Bulldogs piled up a third-place total of 1,061 1/2 points, while the Uclans hold on to fourth with 827.

The 7-0 tumble of Rice before Arkansas after its stratospheric success over Texas, tumbled the Owls all the way out of the top ten, enabling Pennsylvania's ponderous Quakers, who only have to face Army next Saturday, to climb from ninth to fifth place in the poll with 640 points, as a result of their 4-6 romp over Columbia.

Standings of the top ten teams (points based on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 system of counting).

Joseph Racicot Of McFarland Dies At Marquette Sunday

Joseph Racicot of McFarland died Sunday morning at three a. m. at the St. Mary's hospital at Marquette. He had been seriously ill for several months.

Mr. Racicot was born in Negaunee on May 16, 1892. He lived for a short while at Nadeau but spent the last 25 years as a woodsman at McFarland. He was a member of the Gwinn Catholic church.

He is survived by a wife, Hattie, his mother, Georgiana Racicot, and nine children, Mrs. Morgan O'Connors, Turin, Mrs. Paul Hassell, Turin, Mrs. Jess Wells, Chicago, Mrs. Donald Johnson, Beloit, Wis., Kenneth R. Turin, Beatrice, Milwaukee, Joseph Jr., Clemanine, and Dale of Turin. He is also survived by six grandchildren, three brothers, and seven sisters. The brothers and sisters are Louis R. of Schaffer, Mrs. William Lindquist, Detroit, Sr. M. Germaine, O. P. of Adrian, Mrs. Colomiere O. P. of Adrian, Mrs. Anthony O'Donnell, Detroit, Mrs. George Parker, Neenah, Wis., Walter and Raymond of Detroit and Mrs. J. B. Single of Miami, Florida.

The body will lie in state at the Alto funeral home. The funeral service will take place at 10 a. m. this morning at St. Patrick's church, Rev. George Stutebeck, pastor of the Gwinn church offi-

Col. Bartella Is Now In Washington

Col. John M. Bartella has been transferred from the Air Transport Command to chief of transportation on the headquarters staff of the Army Air Forces in Washington, D. C. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Bartella of Escanaba. Col. Bartella also was recently awarded the Bronze Star by Gen. MacArthur for his services with MacArthur's staff headquarters during the period from July, 1944, to November, 1945.

The burial will be at St. Ann cemetery.

Obituary

MRS. MARYANN MOSES

Attending the services from away were the following relatives: Mr. and Mrs. Michael Osogwin and John Osogwin of Hessel; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lambert, Joe Lambert, Jake Moses and family; Dan Moses, Irene Peaine, Daniel Peaine of St. Ignace; Mary Jacko, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Jacko Jr., Mrs. Isaac Peary and Doris Jacko of Newberry.

North Escanaba Fire Station Is Closed As "Test"

Fire Station No. 2 in North Escanaba was closed again yesterday on orders of the city manager after the city council informally indicated its intention to make the closing permanent if the "test" period proved there is no loss of fire protection efficiency.

Station No. 2 was first closed temporarily a week or more ago when one of the trucks in the fire station broke down. While the truck was being repaired the remainder of the men and equipment were stationed at the central station in city hall. The No. 2 station was reopened after the truck was repaired, and then closed again.

City Manager A. V. Aronson said that yesterday he had received many telephone inquiries concerning the proposed change. Following the test period there will be a council decision on the matter, he explained.

ACCOMMODATED DOGS

One type of prewar three-deck motor bus in Rome provided a smoking compartment and special accommodations for dogs. It carried 88 persons.

Superior Conference Leaguers Convening In Los Angeles Soon

Many young folk of the Superior conference, which includes all of the Upper Peninsula and Northern Wisconsin, Luther Leaguers, of which the Bethany Luther League of Escanaba and First Luther League of Gladstone and Calvary Luther League, Rapid River are affiliated are planning to go to Los Angeles, Calif., in February, to attend the 12th Biennial Youth Conference of the Augustana Luther League, Feb. 12, to 16 inclusive.

Milton Bloomquist, Escanaba and Sault Ste. Marie, member of the International Steering committee on transportation for the conference, was in the city over the week end and announced that at least 36 or 40 delegates are planning to attend from this area.

Among Escanabans planning to attend are: Jean Beck, Gustaf Anderson, Harold Sundelius, Carol Wawirka and Dorothy Erickson. Others from this area now contemplating to be present are Clarence Nelson, official delegate of the Green Bay district Luther League, Wallace Mich., Doris Beiley, Menominee and Arlene Kutz Marinette.

Representatives from Mountain and Underhill, Wis. Pembine and Peshtigo, Wis., together with Leaguers from Iron Mountain, Iron River, Crystal Falls, Ironwood, Wakefield, Marquette, Ishpeming, Negaunee, Manistique, Newberry and Sault Ste. Marie, St. Ignace and Stephenson are to be among those in attendance.

A special coast-to-coast Luther League special train has been arranged to take the Leaguers to the coast. Special tours to Catalina Island and Tia Juana, Mexico have been arranged for those in attendance.

More announcements will be made later as to local arrangements for transportation to Chicago and Minneapolis to connect with the Luther League special coast-to-coast train.

Smoking and matches, and misuse of electrical equipment and wiring are the foremost causes of fires in the United States.

In Appreciation of the Fine Support Given Me...

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to the voters of Delta County for the splendid support given me in last Tuesday's election. It was a pleasure to run for the office of State Representative and to enjoy the privilege of meeting and making new friends who placed their confidence in me.

Yours sincerely,

With outstretched, fragile wings of embroidered net... pale, sunbeam-yellow butterflies cling gently to this slip and gown... as though just alighting on a flower. Artemis' designed this charmingly matched pair as an offering to the lady who loves luxurious lingerie. Both slip and gown are of softest, snowy-white Bur-Mil crepe... outlined in yellow crepe the same shade as the butterflies.

For boudoir glamour... wear this Butterfly Gown. Molded bust, clinging waist, long, flowing lines combine sleeping comfort and figure flattery. Sizes 32 to 40.

The Butterfly Slip... like all slips by Artemis... gives you the famous Straight-Curve-Bias 3-way cut that insures trim-contour fit... even hang... and provides a smooth foundation for your entire wardrobe. Sizes 32 to 40... short length 31½ to 37½.
